INTEGRATION DATES OUT

GOP Goes In For More Flexibility

. . . AIM STILL DESEGRATION

Washington (AP)— The Nixon administration Friday scrapped arbitrary deadlines for complete school desegregation in favor of more flexible policies. But it held firm on the objective of full desegregation.

While abandoning the general requirement for full compliance this fall with federal standards, the administration pledged to step up court suits against die-hard districts unwilling to move toward meaningful integration.

Suits In Works

A Justice Department official said suits are in the works attacking segregated schools on statewide and multi-district levels.

The 10-page statement said the administration is "unequivocally committed to the goal of finally ending racial discrimination in schools, steadily and speedily, in accordance with the law of the land."

The administration policy statement was made jointly by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Secretary Robert H. Finch of health, education and welfare.

The emphasized they were announcing "new, coordinated procedures, not new guidelines." Nevertheless, the statement did away with mandatory deadlines for full desegregation that were included in the guidelines set by the Johnson administration in March 1968.

September 1969, 1970

Those guidelines required complete desegregation this September for the fairly sizable minority of Southern school districts that have not already voluntarily desegregated.

In cases where school districts have a Negro majority or where new construction of facilities is required, the deadline for complete desegregation was September 1970.

In scrapping these dates, Mitchell and Finch said, "Setting, breaking and resetting unrealistic deadlines may give the appearance of great federal activity, but in too many cases it has actually impeded progress."

Quoting a Supreme Court decision that held "there is no universal answer" to problems of desegregation, Finch and Mitchell declared:

"Accordingly, it is not our purpose here to lay down a single arbitrary date by which the desegregated process should be completed in all districts, or to lay down a single, arbitrary system by which it should be achieved."

They 'Want Action'

At a briefing later, officials of the Departments of Justice and of Health, Education and Welfare said this does not mean that the present procedures will be abandoned and they emphasized that they "want action by September 1969."

"There's got to be some movement," a Justice Department official said. "They've got to get some school desegregation, some faculty desegregation, some activities desegregation."

In last fall's election campaign President Nixon hinted there might be a relaxation of the previously vigorous enforcement and there were wide reports of promises made to leading Southern politicians, particularly Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

One criticism of the civil rights act's provision for cutting off funds has been that it is usually exactly the people — Negroes and the poor — which the act intends to help who are hurt the most.

4,477 Districts Segregated

The statement said there were 4,477 school districts located primarily in the 17 Southern and border states which had maintained racial segregation as official policy.

The statement said 2,994 have desegregated voluntarily, 333 are in the process of completing desegregation plans, 234 have agreed to desegregate this fall and 96 have pledged to lower racial bars by next year.

Besides, 369 districts are under court orders to desegregate as a result of action taken by the Justice Department. There are 121 school districts whose federal funds have been cut off and 263 which face such a prospect during the coming year.

Signal Given To Begin Countdown On July 10

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — Space agency officials Thursday flashed launch crews a go-ahead to begin the Apollo 11 countdown on July 10 after astronauts, rocket and spacecraft successfully completed a final countdown rehearsal test for man's first journey to the surface of the moon.

The seven-day tst, completed Thursday morning, "went off extremely smoothly," said launch director Rocco A. Petrone.

"We encountered some minor difficulties which we completely understand. We are proceeding to prepare for the countdown," he said.

Wearing space suits and sealed inside their moonship as if it were launch day, astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., practiced the final hours of the count and achieved a simulated liftoff at 9:32 a.m. — the exact time they are to blast off on launch day.

The actual countdown will begin at 8 p.m. July 10, NASA said, leading up to a planned liftoff time of 9:32 a.m. July 16. Altogether, the count includes 93 hours of work and 40 hours 32 minutes of "hold" time for launch crew rest and to correct any problems that might arise.

During the countdown rehearsal, the key item in the lunar module landing craft's guidance system, called an inertial measuring unit, "showed some degredation The seven-day test, comflight," NASA said.

The unit, which tells the guidance system what is the spacecraft's attitude, velocity and acceleration is, will be replaced over the weekend and "no affect on the Apollo launch date is expected," officials said.

Shepard Commands Apollo 13

Houston (UPI) — Astronaut Alan B. Shepard, America's first man in space, will command the nation's third flight to the moon if all goes well on Apollo 11 this month, it was learned Thursday.

Shepard, 45, a Navy captain and one of the original seven Mercury space pilots, has not been named officially to make the April lunar landing flight in Apollo 13. But reliable space agency sources said he has been tapped for the job.

The space pioneer will be accompanied on the moon mission by astronauts Stuart Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell, sources said.

July Fourth Celebration Changed Through Years

BY LINDA SULLIVAN
Star Staff Writer

Nebraskans have been celebrating the Fourth of July for almost 150 years — and 150 years is longer than Nebraska has existed as a state.

Today, many of the celebrations will center around state parks, swimming pools and golf courses rather than the cottonwood groves and tidy log cabins of yesterday.

The first Fourth of July celebration in Nebraska supposedly took place at Fort Atkinson, now the site of Fort Calhoun. Displaying the colors and the games, orations and dances perhaps established the precedent of the standard Fourth of July celebration which was to be carried down through the next ten decades in Nebraska.

Thing Of Past

The Fourth of July program, now more or less a thing of the past, was once the event of the summer in Nebraska.

It lasted from that early morning hour when mom got up to start fixin' the potato salad and chicken until a few good times later when the last fiddler dragged himself off the platform and home, still feeling a little warmer in the veins.

Epworth Park on Salt Creek, now probably forgotten to everyone but the scouts at Camp Minis Kuya, was the scene of most of the Lincoln Independence Day festivities at the turn of the century. Late in the 20s, Pioneers Park was developed, and today it still hosts many Fourth of July holidayers.

Noisy Tradition

Cannon salutes early set the noisy tradition of bell-ringing, horn-blowing, or even skillet-banging, if it happened to be the only thing handy. And mothers today are still forced to prepare their nerves on the third or else get a set of ear plugs on the fourth.

The mischievous enthusiasm and noisy confusion which usually rides in with the fourth has more than once brought tragedy with it.

Perhaps the earliest "firework" accident was one which occurred back in 1888, when a Col. Skinner of Lincoln ordered a cannon salute to be organized, using experienced artillery men. The program, held on the University of Nebraska campus, ended with a seven-year-old dead and the two cannon operators each minus an arm after it went off accidentally.

Heat Discouraging?

It may have been that Nebraska heat which began to discourage the huge community gatherings on the fourth; temperatures such as a scorching 110 degrees in 1936 could well have done it.

Most likely, however, it was the growth of Lincoln which caused the large holiday social to be replaced with smaller, informal gatherings.

Today the log cabins, cotton groves and fried chicken seem to be replaced by a cold beer on the patio with the air-conditioning safely four feet away

But somewhere in between the time when you hear that first, "Mom, can I have a quarter for some fireworks?" and the minute you find that your last vesuvian fountain is a dud, you get that old nostalgic feeling that change it may, but a good holiday never dies.

Prison Meal Boycott Apparently Near End

More than 400 of the 500 Nebraska Penitentiary inmates ended their boycott on the mess hall Thursday, Warden Maurice Sigler reported.

The inmates ate their first meal in three days at noon, Sigler said. The boycott began with the noon serving Tuesday.

Sigler said Thursday evening that "most of them" ate at supper and said he believed the meal boycott was over.

"They are going to eat anyway," he added.

Concerning the demands brought to his attention, Sigler said "we are not going to pay any attention to them." He said no spokesman for the inmates has come forward to explain "what this whole thing is about."

The warden said he "will watch this thing very closely" during the three-day Fourth of July weekend.

Confinement to cells has been imposed during part of the week.

The refusal to eat prison food was in apparent protest to the institution's meals, although a "food strike" leaflet found in one of the cell blocks also demanded a 10-cent increase in the 30-cent a day minimum inmate wage and the establishment of an inmate council to expose "gripes."

Health Dept. To Check Malone, Clinton Areas

The Lincoln Human Rights Commission Thursday was informed that the health department plans to follow up on a recent tour made by city officials who viewed housing and environmental health problems in the Malone and Clinton areas.

Human Rights Officer Gerald Henderson said the health department contacted him about the plans.

"The health officers and I will be touring the areas to make note of violations in the area," Henderson said.

He said that residents would be advised about items which must be corrected and would be given a set time period to make the corrections.

Commission member Gary Hill suggested that the people be made aware of places they can go for relief help in case they are short of funds.

Miss Kay Thompson pointed out that some of the properties in the areas are owned by the city.

The tour by city officials had been prompted by the Human Rights Commission.

Commission members adopted a recommendation that all city employes who deal with the public — especially the police — be given sensitivity training as soon as possible.

The training involves dealing with minority ethnic group members.

The commission has received complaints from minority group persons who feel the treatment they receive from city departments is different from the treatment extended to other Lincoln citizens.

An informal meeting has been held with Police Chief Joe Carroll about the problem.

Commission members also recommended that the police department increase the frequency that police cruisers patrol the Malone and Clinton areas.

Members suggested that the cruisers patrol the alleys as well as the front streets and make note of all unsanitary or unsafe conditions.

The group plans to send a letter to Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, the City Council, and the police department concerning the recommendations.

Also to be included in the letter are recommendations for a termination interview to be given to employes who leave city jobs and a public education program about city services available to the people.

Garbage Ordinance Study Planned

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf announced Thursday he plans to form a committee to study possible changes in the city's garbage disposal ordinances.

Mayor Schwartzkopf said he wants an ordinance "which will keep the city clean."

"I have nothing specific in mind as to what changes — if any — should be made," he said.

The mayor said the committee would consist of representatives of refuse disposal firms and the health department, as well as city officials.

During a recent tour of low income areas piles of garbage were seen behind many of the houses.

The mayor said any ordinance change would affect the entire city.

Schwartzkopf also noted that 900 of the 2,500 abandoned cars in the city have been removed through the "goodbye junker" program.

British Docks Tied Up

London (UPI) — British dock workers are continuing their strike, tying up $24 million in exports. Fruit rotted in Southampton and cargo piled up on the Liverpool and Birkenhead quays as the 13,000 dock workers crippled two thirds of British ports.

Intelligence Analysts Cautious About Report

(C) New York Times News Service

Washington — Military intelligence experts reported Thursday that they could find no signs of enemy troops at the North Vietnam end of the infiltration pipeline. The analysts are reacting cautiously to this information, suggesting that heavy rains may have made travel and detection more difficult.

U.S. Charged With Escalation

Paris — Members of the North Vietnamese and Provisional Revolutionary Government delegations in Paris blunted questions about reductions in their forces by charging the United States with escalating the war. (More on Page 2.)

U.S. Lifts Arms Embargo

Washington — The State Department has announced that it is lifting the embargo on military sales to Peru and Ecuador. The decision is viewed in diplomatic sources as part of an agreement under which Peru and Ecuador will join with Chile in discussions with the United States on fishing problems.

Abernathy Out Of Jail

Charleston, S.C. — The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy walked out of jail in Charleston, expressing confidence that the long strike of hospital workers in the city is almost over. Abernathy had been in jail for almost two weeks. He had been arrested on charges of rioting and inciting to riot.

Israel To Get French Fighters

Tel Aviv — The Israeli defense forces radio announced that President Georges Pompidou of France lifted the embargo on arms shipments to Israel and that 50 Mirage V jets impounded in France by former President Charles de Gaulle are to be released in the fall. After the delivery of the jets, the embargo will be reimposed.

Rogers Reorganizing Department

Washington — Secretary of State William P. Rogers is reorganizing the State Department to improve foreign policy planning and to bring long range planners into contact with day-to-day problems. The Policy Planning Council will be dispersed to provide Rogers and his three chief deputies with small staffs of specialists.

Germ, Gas War Funds Cut

Washington — The Senate Armed Service Committee reacted to criticism of military spending and chemical and biological warfare by cutting all funds for research and development of chemical and biological agents. The committee left intact funds for the development of a defense against such forms of warfare. (More on Page 2.)

Reaction Unfavorable To Romney

Jackson, Miss. — Housing and Urban Development Secretary George Romney delivered a speech to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and received a generally unpopular reaction when he placed urban aid behind ending the war and halting inflation in the administration's list of priorities.

Six Women Arrested

New York — Six women antiwar demonstrators were arrested at Rockefeller Center as they allegedly scattered sliced up draft records. The women were arrested by FBI agents as the persons who vandalized the offices of 13 local draft boards. The arrests caused a melee that stopped traffic along Fifth Avenue.

Carmichael Quits Panthers

New York — Stokely Carmichael has resigned as a member and as prime minister of the Black Panther Party, in a letter addressed to the party's "central committee," which was given to newsmen by his wife. Carmichael called the party "dogmatic" and said he could not support some of its present tactics of coercion.

Red Side Charges U.S. With Intensifying War

©The New York Times

By DREW MIDDLETON

Paris — Spokesmen for North Vietnam and the Provisional Revolutionary Government proclaimed by the National Liberation Front charged Thursday that the United States was intensifying the war in Vietnam.

The charges were made at a news conference following the 24th plenary session of the Vietnam talks here. The formal statements in the session produced no visible signs of movement in the direction of negotiations.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers' statement in Washington Wednesday was not mentioned in any of the four speeches at the talks. Rogers said there had been a reduction in enemy combat activity and infiltration and that, if these persisted, the pace of American troop withdrawals could be affected.

World News

The spokesmen for Hanoi and the PRG, which last month took over the duties of the National Liberation Front in the "liberated" areas of South Vietnam, used Rogers' remarks as the springboard for bitter attacks on U.S. policy.

Pham Dang Lam, head of South Vietnam's delegation, disclosed in his speech an assessment of enemy activity markedly different from that provided by Rogers.

Reviewing North Vietnamese and Viet Cong activities since March 31, 1968, when the United States stopped bombing north of the 19th parallel, Lam said that "instead of progressively reducing the magnitude of military operations, you continue infiltrating troops and arms from the North into the South to nurture your war of aggression."

The only mollifying note during the day was an expression of appreciation from chief U.S. negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge to North Vietnam for the promised release of three prisoners of war and Hanoi's willingness to allow other prisoners to receive gifts from their families.

Lodge said he hoped this would lead to such further humanitarian actions as "more general prisoner releases . . a list of names of prisoners, permission for all prisoners to correspond with their families and release of sick and wounded prisoners."

Armstrong's Home Town Excited, Worried, Proud

Wapakoneta, Ohio (AP) — Excited. Worried. Proud.

That's how Wapakoneta's 7,500 residents feel as they prepare for the town's place in one of the biggest events in history.

Neil A. Armstrong, scheduled early on July 21 to be the first man to touch the moon, was born and raised here. From his grandmother's peaceful farm five miles south of town to the abandoned Wapak Flying Field three miles north, they love him.

"We loved him before he became an astronaut and we still do," said Mrs. J. Grover Crites, wife of Armstrong's high school science teacher.

Hopes God Is With Him

"It's a big worry," said the astronaut's grandmother, Mrs. William Korspeter, of the lunar landing. "I hope God will take care of him and bring him safely home."

"It's a tremendous, wonderful experience. There just aren't words," said his mother, Viola Armstrong, as she stood under a pear tree on the Korspeter farm. A motherly looking woman in her 50s with graying hair, she appears excited and proud, though apprehensive, about her son's voyage.

Stephen K. Armstrong, father of the astronaut, works in Columbus as assistant director of the Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Corrections. He drives 90 miles to work each Monday and returns to Wapakoneta Friday evenings. He refuses to talk to newsmen about his son's adventure. About 5 foot 10 and in his 50s, he wears glasses and flashes the same ready smile that is characteristic of Neil and Mrs. Armstrong.

"I just hope Neil gets back. There are an awful lot of ifs," said an old scouting pal, Jerre Maxson.

Biggest Thing For Town

"It's the biggest thing ever to happen to the town. There is a feeling of pride," said Charles Brading of the Rhine and Brading drugstore where Armstrong worked for 40 cents an hour in 1945-47.

Inevitably, much local conversation remains as in any other small, Midwestern county seat; taxes, crops, the recent heat spell. But in many respects a moon craze is sweeping Wapakoneta's tree-lined streets.

A local cheese company — the town's biggest employer with 400 workers — has come out with "Moon Cheese." A new soft drink called "Moon Sauce from Wapakoneta" is selling rapidly in the corner groceries.

'Excitement Is Growing'

"The excitement is growing to a climax day by day," says G. W. "Glenn" McCoy, editor and publisher of the Wapakoneta Daily News.

The paper plans a special edition the week of the launch, just as it did when Armstrong commanded Gemini 8 in March 1966.

"It'll be our brief moment in the sun when Neil goes up," McCoy says. "Then we'll go back to being a small town.

Wapak — as it's called by most northwestern Ohioans — is a charming community nestled along the Auglaize River about 60 miles north of Dayton, home of Orville and Wilbur Wright, inventors of the world's first heavier-than-air flying machine.

Shops Close Thursday Afternoon

All but six downtown shops close Thursday afternoons to allow their owners to swim, play golf or mow their lawns. On many a hot summer afternoon, downtown is nearly deserted. But the streets leading to the new swimming pool may be clogged with youngsters on bicycles.

Armstrong was born Aug. 5, 1930, in his grandparents' farm home. His grandmother still lives in the white-shingled farmhouse amid six red barns and a grove of maple and fruit trees.

Neil's grandfather died in April and a neighbor now farms the 60 acres.

"I don't think he'd ever forget his days back here," Mrs. Armstrong said.

912 Neil Armstrong Drive

The Armstrong family — Neil, brother Dean and sister June and their parents — lived briefly in other parts of Ohio before settling down in a big white house on Benton Street. About seven years ago the Armstrongs moved to a big brick home in the woods along the river. The address now: 912 Neil Armstrong Drive.

As a teen-ager Neil was fascinated with airplanes. After work at the drugstore he pedaled his bicycle three miles north of town to the Wapak Flying Service. He rebuilt an old plane and learned to fly before he could drive. He received a pilot's license at 16.

The old airport — now a grassy strip and two broken down hangars — has been replaced by the Neil Armstrong Airport located about 15 miles south of town.

Armstrong's old chum Jerre Maxson described him as a normal kid. "He wore old clothes and rode a bike with no fenders and a lump on the tire with tape wrapped around it."

Armstrong An Eagle Scout

Armstrong and Maxson were members of Boy Scout Troop 14. Neil was an Eagle.

Armstrong was an intelligent student. He completed the second and third grades in a single year at St. Marys. He attended Blume High School, now a junior high, about three blocks from his parents' home.

Grover Crites taught mathematics and science for 53 years.

"Neil was determined to excel, whether academically or in any other application, and he always had a goal," Crites said. "He's an all-American boy from an all-American family that lived together, loved together and played together."

Crites thought of Armstrong as a dreamer and recalls one of his dreams.

"In October of his senior year, Neil came to our home. We sat on the porch under a big harvest moon and chatted about some questions he had asked. Finally I said: 'Neil, next year, what?' He looked up at that big moon and said: 'Someday I'd like to meet that man up there.' "

U.S. Not Sending Envoy To Vatican

Key Biscayne, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon informed Pope Paul VI Thursday there will be no special, fulltime U.S. envoy to the Vatican.

Group Cuts $1,074,000,000 From Arms, Research Bill

Washington (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee announced approval Thursday of a $20-billion authorization bill for Pentagon research and weapons.

This was a reduction of $1.9 billion from Nixon administration requests, although two programs already canceled by the Defense Department accounted for almost half of the cutback.

Those are the manned orbiting laboratory, which would have cost $400 million this year, and the Army's Cheyenne helicopter, which would have cost $426 million.

Low-Priority Items Cut

Most of the other reductions made by the committee were in relatively low-priority items such as the airborne warning and control systems (AWACS) and the SAM-D surface-to-air missile, and projects in which more than one branch of the armed services were at work on similar items.

The bill includes the full $758.4 million requested by the administration for the Safeguard antiballistic missile system, an item approved last week by a vote of 10 to 7.

But the committee dropped some $16 million for research and development in the offensive use of lethal and incapacitating chemical and biological warfare (CBW) agents, confining approval to research on defense against CBW agents.

The committee's statement said, "Certain items relating to the development of chemical and biological weapons were recommended for deletion."

A separate statement by Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.Y., chairman of the special research subcommittee, said the committee had eliminated the $16 million in funds in research and development into offensive CBW agents but had retained all money for research into defense against such agents.

In addition, committee sources said that money requested by the Pentagon for procurement of CBW materials was left intact.

President Nixon has ordered a review of the whole CBW program in light of protests involving its existence and the shipment of its products.

Pattern Has Intelligence Men Guessing

Saigon (AP) — At one point along South Vietnam's border enemy troops are pulling back. At another they are coming in. At still another they are going back and forth.

This is the picture drawn by American officers.

Coupled with a new and unpredictable lull in the war and the unconfirmed possibility that over-all infiltration has slacked off, the pattern has intelligence officers pondering.

Reflecting the lull, the U.S. Command reported that 241 Americans were killed and 1,674 were wounded in the week ending last Saturday. It was the lowest death toll in seven weeks.

The U.S. Command said 3,333 enemy troops were killed last week, a decline from the 3,988 slain the previous week.

South Vietnamese headquarters announced that government losses were 446 killed and 804 wounded, also a decline from 474 killed and 1,496 wounded the week before.

Hog Cholera Cases Cause Emergency

. . . Infected Swine Traced To Missouri Imports

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

An emergency was declared in Nebraska Thursday to combat outbreaks of hog cholera by Elmer Schlaphoff, director of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture.

Schlaphoff took added measures on an emergency basis to combat hog cholera after five more cases were confirmed.

During the past two weeks eight cases have been confirmed with all cases tracing to swine imported from Missouri, according to Dr. Stanley Flora, state veterinarian.

The Department of Agriculture warned Nebraska farmers against unscrupulous dealers who might be involved in the movement of hogs of unknown or questionable origin.

Affidavits Urged

"Farmers are urged to insist on an affidavit or notarized statement from the producer to assure that the swine purchased are from Nebraska farms and not imported by dealers who might be moving pigs illegally into the state and misrepresenting origin," said Dr. Flora.

Hog cholera outbreaks have been diagnosed in southeastern, northeastern and south central Nebraska with the Department of Agriculture and U.S. Department of Agriculture Animal Health Division acknowledging that the Hastings Pork Plant was the site of an outbreak.

Dr. Flora said the Hastings Pork facility, often described as the state's largest swine operation with an estimated 12,000 hogs, was so designed that individual units could be depopulated without affecting the entire operation.

Schlaphoff and Flora announced Thursday that no swine have been permitted entry and no permits will be issued until the state of origin has the existing infection under control.

Flora said if cholera is diagnosed all farms adjacent to the outbreak premises will be contacted and owners of swine as well as veterinarians serving the area will be informed of the existing infection in their vicinity.

Flora noted that indemnity payments can only be made on animals that are alive at their first visit of a state or federal official.

Tracing Shipments

Dr. Flora and Dr. E. H. Norstrom, chief of the animal health division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture for Nebraska, indicated that state and federal field personnel have been tracing all known shipments of imported pigs and quarantines on these shipments will remain in effect until it is determined the pigs are not infected with cholera.

The emergency action on hog cholera Thursday followed reports that some producers were concerned about a conflict in diagnosis that was existing with samples sent from Nebraska to an Ames, Iowa, laboratory showing an outbreak of cholera to exist where previously a Nebraska laboratory check did not show hog cholera to exist.

Some producers thought the Department of Agriculture was "gambling for high stakes" by not taking more drastic action in regard to the reported cholera outbreak.

Nebraska now has hog cholera legislation that provides for depopulation of herds that are diagnosed as having cholera.

'Fantasticks': A Musical For Ex-Callow Types

By DAVE ZIMMERMAN
Star Staff Writer

For ex-callow fellows and former lovestruck girls, whom the world has happened to of late, the "Fantasticks" is one play to see.

The Lincoln Community Playhouse presented their view of the sprightly surrealistic musical Thursday evening in a Cabaret Theater performance at the Lincoln Hotel.

In a theater setting sort of in the round and somewhat in the rough, the play hovered around two young lovers in love with love, adventure, the exotic, and finally with each other after their illusions ended.

Stars Equipped

The Girl, Dede Andros, and The Boy, Mike Laessle, came equipped with their years to conjure up their all-too-real characters. Their characters were particularly good during their singing.

Their fathers, portrayed by Don Reeves and Joe Miller, brought to light a basic theory in child-raising. Namely, in order to make your offspring do what you want, you merely say no.

Miller, whose portly figure showed more necessary characterization than any two others' combined, obviously had the most fun with his role.

Shakespeare Slandered

Also, the doyen of the Lincoln troupe, Clair Rickel, was cast as The Old Actor, and admirably added real humor during his slandering of Shakespeare's most reverent lines.

His compatriot, Jeffrey Poley, as the rednecked redskin, feigned comic death to the audience's laughing approval. (But this is not to say he died in his role.)

Lee Schoonover, as narrator, looked well, sang well, and acted well, as story line interpreter and as the Gypsy-like purveyor of temptation, cunning, and worldly wisdom.

Banks Cautioned Against Further Interest Hikes

Washington (UPI) — Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy called representatives of 25 of the nation's largest banks to a Monday meeting to caution them against any further increase in the already record prime interest level.

A treasury spokesman Thursday said the meeting was prompted by rumors there may be further increases in the prime rates, now at 8½%.

David Rockefeller, board chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, one of the bank officers invited to the meeting, told the Washington Post Thursday another increase was inevitable under present conditions.

Inspiring Words

by Bob Metcalf

The Bible was not written primarily as history — yet recent discoveries of such ancient manuscripts as the Dead Sea Scrolls, and excavations in Israel, Jordan, Egypt and Iraq, continue to prove it accurate. Even more impressive than the Bible's validation as history, however, has been its continuing impact on world culture. Consider how many of the great masterpieces of music, art and literature are based on Biblical teachings, narratives and personalities. Shakespeare's writings are filled with more than 1200 Biblical quotations. The Bible, though written by many different authors over many centuries, has never gone out of date!

There are many comforting words in the Bible. You will be comforted in your sorrow by those at METCALF FUNERAL HOME, 245 North 27 St. Tel. 432-5591. 24 Hr. Service. Homelike Atmosphere. All faiths welcomed. Organ Music. Trained Staff.

Swift Closing Leaves Over 600 Jobless

Omaha (AP) — The 82-year-old Swift and Co. plant here closed Thursday, leaving more than 600 workers unemployed.

Just across the street remained the ruins of another once-great meat plant in the livestock center that had been operated by Armour and Co.

Officials said last year the Swift plant was outmoded and announced closing plans.

Mayor Eugene Leahy, while making a tour of the plant, told workers efforts were being made to provide them help.

The company's Glenwood, Iowa, plant, which will absorb some 200 workers from Omaha, will begin operation Monday.

Swift Plant Manager Virgil Franz said about 200 more jobs will be available when the Swift ham-canning plant under construction opens, scheduled about mid-August.

The workers displaced represent more than one-third of the 1,600 plant employes. The others have either left for other jobs, transferred to other Swift plants or retired.

Union Requests Delaying Loder's Appeal

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Police Union asked Chief Richard Andersen by letter Thursday to relay to the City Personnel Board the union's request that civil service proceedings concerning the suspension and dismissal of Patrolman James Loder be held up pending the outcome of Loder's trial.

Loder, charged with manslaughter, Wednesday appealed his suspension and dismissal from the Police Department. Personnel Director Ernest Howard said the board will consider the appeal July 29.

Chief Andersen had no immediate comment on the letter.

Loder has been suspended for 15 days and his dismissal becomes effective July 10. He had pleaded innocent to the manslaughter charge and is free on $500 bond.

Loder said the charges filed against him in connection with the fatal shooting of Vivian Strong, 14-year-old Negro girl, are "wholly without foundation." The shooting was followed by disturbances last week on the Near North Side.

The Police Union asked also that:

—Every uniformed officer except beat and motorcycle men be equipped with a riot gun at all times.

—Chief Andersen commend Lt. Lewis Ruberti and other officers assigned to the disturbance area last week "for handling of this very difficult situation."

The chief "review" one-man car assignments in the downtown and north parts of the city and that more men be trained to control sniper fire.

3 Bullet Holes In Front Window Of Black Panther

Omaha (AP) — A delayed police report Thursday disclosed that bullet holes had been discovered in the front window of the Omaha Black Panther headquarters.

Eddie Bolden, a Black Panther spokesman, said in a report to police that three holes were made by bullets between 2:30 a.m. and 3 a.m. Saturday. The Panther office is at 3120 North 24th St.

Colden also said a black flag was taken from the front of the building.

Capt. Murdock Platner said the detective bureau, where such reports normally are received, was informed of the report Wednesday. Police officials had no explanation for the delay in making the report public.

Red Underwear Among Bertrand Hold Contents

Missouri Valley, Iowa (AP) — The scent of buried treasure burns hotter in the nostrils of two Omaha men now that the first contents of the hold of a sunken Missouri River steamboat have been removed.

The first items removed from the excavation at De Soto Wildlife Refuge, where the hulk of the steamer Bertrand was unearthed, included a pair of long red underwear, sewing supplies, buttons, combs and a bundle of eight flannel shirts.

But within the next month, Jesse Pursell and Sam Corbino, both of Omaha, hope to find nearly $1 million worth of mercury, gold and whiskey that went down with the boat in April, 1865.

After 15 months of searching, delayed by high water and sand cave-ins, the two cut a hole in the center of the boat this week and started to remove items once destined for mining towns in Montana. The Bertrand represents the first find of one of nearly 400 boats that sank in the Missouri in the mid-1800s.

All of the boat's contents except 60% of the mercury, gold and whisky, which the treasure hunters hope to make their work worth while, will go to the National Park Service as government property under a contract with the General Services Administration. The GSA holds title to federal lands.

Unload By Hand

Pursell said searchers will work toward the stern of the boat in about a 16-foot path — half the width of the boat — and unload all goods in the five-foot hold by hand. Each item will be classified and preserved by archaelogists.

Nearly $60,000 has been invested in the hunt by Pursell and Corbino, with Harry Sorensen of the Sorensen Sand and Gravel Co. of Omaha providing machinery.

Omaha Boy Fatally Hurt

Omaha (UPI) — John King, 11-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard King of Omaha, died in an Omaha hospital Wednesday of injuries suffered when he ran into the side of a pickup truck near his home June 26.

The driver of the truck, David Renner, 27, of La Vista, was not charged.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The City Council tour of Lincoln's main low-income house area has brought an old problem back into the limelight. The problem is the city's lack of a minimum standards housing ordinance.

Council members making the tour of the Malone and Clinton School area seemed unanimous in the thought that Lincoln has to have such an ordinance. It is known that the council has been looking at the subject and, before long, will officially take up several proposed amendments to the housing standards ordinance we now have.

But this sounds like a paradox. We have an ordinance — but we need an ordinance. The answer is that we have an ordinance but it is inadequate. Its biggest fault is that it does not apply to older housing.

★

The present ordinance does not apply to homes built prior to passage of the ordinance several years ago. Of course, these are the homes for which the ordinance is needed the most.

What council members saw on their tour was a total environment of dilapidation. This includes homes that are in need of physical repair as well as grounds that are a conglomeration of clutter.

Of particular interest was the matter of accumulated garbage. It was explained by one social worker that much garbage is accumulated because residents lack the money to have their garbage hauled away.

As a result, they let it accumulate until they can get it hauled away themselves. This is special interest because it demonstrates the real plight of the area.

★

The garbage situation shows just how desperate things can be for some people. An onlooker or casual observer might see this accumulated garbage and trash and call it poor housekeeping. It might never dawn on him that the people living there simply don't have enough money to pay to have their garbage and trash removed.

The same thing might be said about a window screen with holes in it or paint peeling off a house. The people living there may not have even the small amount needed to buy new screen or to buy a couple gallons of paint.

What a lot of people don't realize is just how impoverished some people can be. They cannot comprehend the expenditure of all family resources on the bare essentials of life.— food, shelter and clothing.

A lot of people have a hard time making ends meet but still don't know what poverty really is. They still are far beyond the essentials of life, even though they may have gone so far as to create some budgetary problems for themselves.

★

One member of the City Council, Harry (Pete) Peterson, knows the Malone and Clinton area because he has lived there all his life and is a member of a minority race. He said that if only people knew what the situation was, there would be no objection to a minimum standards housing ordinance.

He is both right and wrong. He is right in regard to the vast majority of people. He is wrong in regard to a few people whose financial interest in slum dwellings has dulled their human sensitivity.

The problem is that not all people ever will know what the situation is. Nor will they know, either, the facts of the proposed solution through an effective minimum standards ordinance.

Rather, they will believe the hogwash fed them about the ordinance destroying their freedom and putting them out of their homes. But hopefully, mandatory state law will now prevail and Lincoln will have the minimum standards housing ordinance which it so greatly needs.

Britishers Jolly Well Know How To Do It

NEW YORK — Presidents are all very well — and "Hail to the Chief" is always good for a fresh crop of patriotic goose bumps — but when it comes to pomp and pageantry you just can't beat the British.

All of us royalty buffs, and there are more around than Patrick Henry might have wished for, have spent years keeping a close eye on the doings of Queen Elizabeth and her clan.

There is something forever fascinating about queens and princesses and castles and such. Golden crowns with diamonds and rubies and emeralds are fun to think about.

I have always had a sneaking hunch the fathers of our country shortchanged us just a little when they cut us off so completely from all royal rigamarole.

If this be treason, may Benjamin Franklin forgive me, but there is something about the way the British marry and bury and crown their monarchs that makes our own state functions look more like Rotary Club luncheons.

☆ ☆ ☆

During President Nixon's recent visit with Queen Elizabeth, the fact that he had a new pair of shoes wasn't nearly as interesting as the news that Her Royal Highness' Buckingham Palace is so huge she has to carry her handbag with her when she goes downstairs to eat lunch.

There may be lots of down-to-earth Americans who couldn't care less about all this, but those of us who grew up on fairy tales are enchanted with behind-the-throne glimpses of Queen Elizabeth fingering a priceless ruby necklace and asking her lady-in-waiting if she's ever worn it.

Could America's First Lady, Pat Nixon, say that? Could Elizabeth Taylor, Hollywood's bejeweled version of royalty, pull off such a line?

For that matter, do you know anyone in this country who serves carrots to her horses on a tray with a starched linen napkin?

☆ ☆ ☆

More impressive, of course, was Prince Charles' investiture as Prince of Wales, a glittering ceremony that had many Americans hanging on every word.

It was Britain's biggest royal splurge since Elizabeth's coronation 16 years ago. And part of the enchantment was in realizing that this pageantry began way back in 1301, when our country was still a forest primeval.

This feeling of history quickened as the cavalrymen clopped down the cobblestone streets of the walled medieval town of Caernarvon with their glittering swords, plumed helmets and bearskin hats, and brilliant livery of scarlet and blue.

Then, in a gold-trimmed coach once used by his great - great - grand - mother, Queen Victoria herself, came Prince Charles, grown-up and probably royally grateful he didn't have to wear the white satin knee breeches the Duke of Windsor was forced to suffer when he was crowned Prince of Wales 58 years ago.

As you listened to the silver trumpets on the 600-year-old battlements, you wondered about the hostility the Welsh nationalists feel about having the alien Charles as their Prince. (The last native in the job was Llywelyn Gruffydd, back in the 1200s.) And while you are assured it's there, it didn't show in the ceremony.

This ancient land of miners, poets and bards will probably yearn sentimentally for independence forever. But mostly it accepted Charles' investiture in a friendly holiday spirit.

And, Welsh, or English, or whatever, any ceremony that requires a 20-year-old to kneel before his mother and swear undying loyalty has to have a lot going for it.

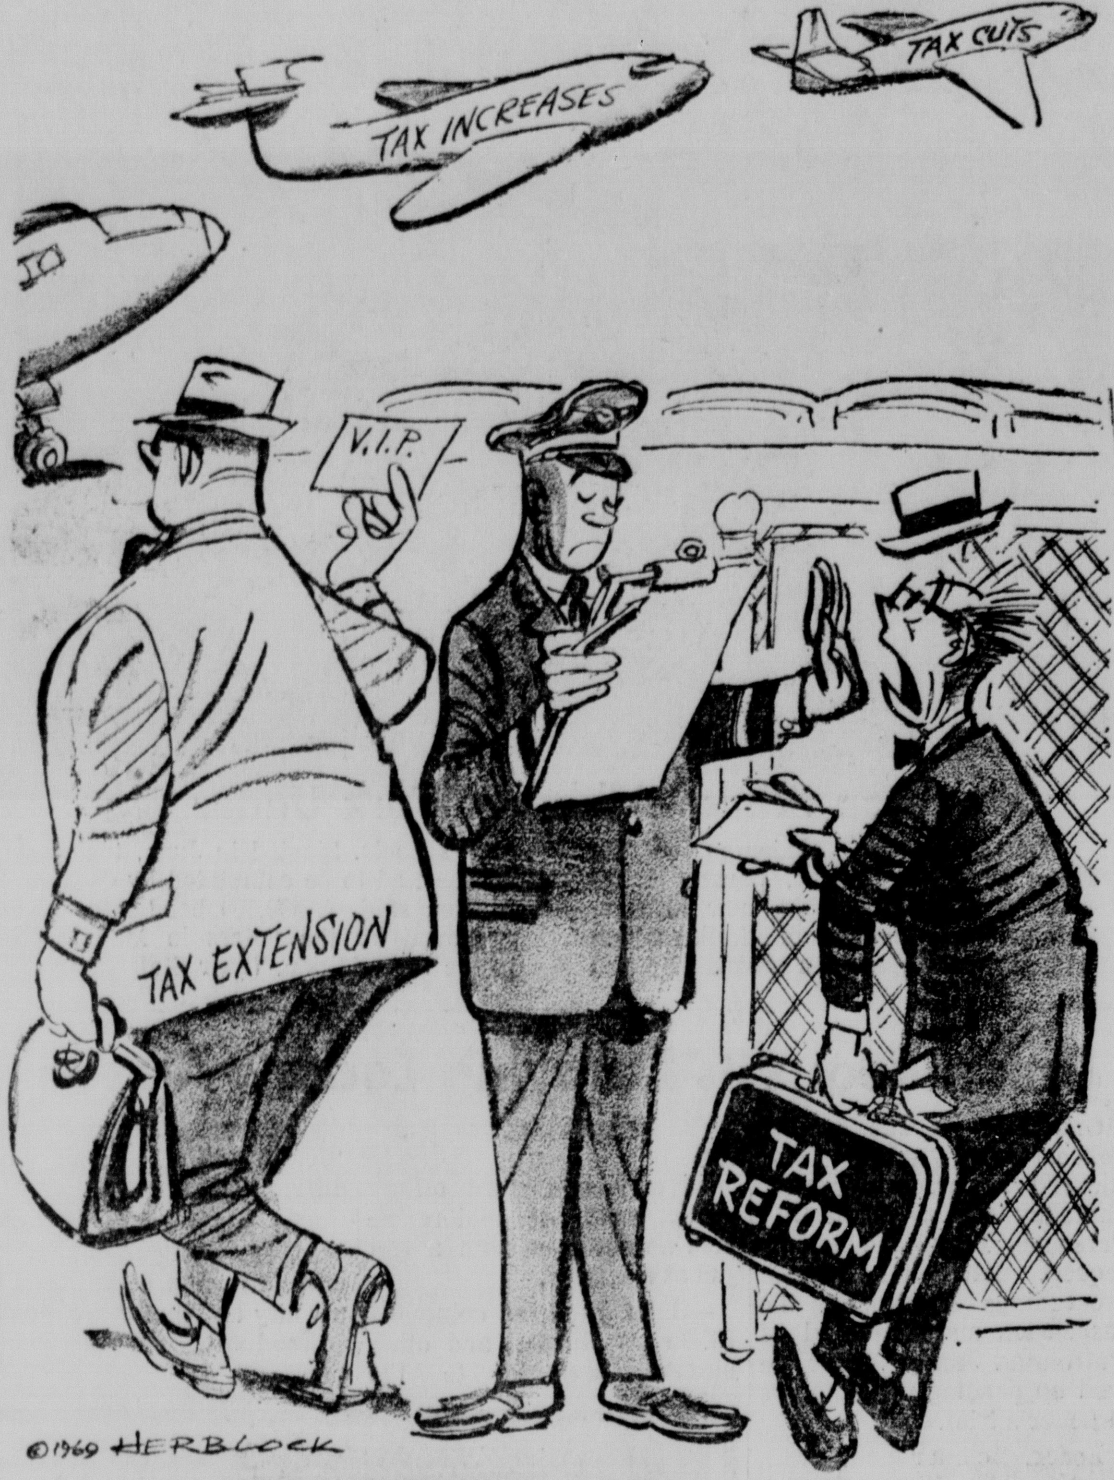
'I'm Tired Of Always Getting Bumped'



McGovern, The Negotiator

The world looks on with cautious optimism as President Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 American combat troops from Vietnam is met with a perceptible decrease in the level of hostilities. One of the President's criteria for a more accelerated withdrawal on our part is being met and if it is not coincidental and hostile action by the Communists continues to ebb the events of this week could prove significant.

It might prove that the U.S. has a tired enemy on its hands, waiting only to regroup; or it might signal a grudging willingness on their part to finally enter into meaningful negotiations. At any rate, the U.S. made the first concession and it appears that the enemy might be reciprocating.

Meanwhile, South Dakota's unofficial representative to the Paris peace talks, Sen. George McGovern, discloses that he met with the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong negotiators secretly in May and that he now has all the answers.

"I am certain," he said, "that we should now notify Saigon, Hanoi, the NLF and other interested parties that we are definitely moving out all of our forces and that the only consideration on the speed of the withdrawal will be the safety of our men. There will be no negotiations in Paris or elsewhere worthy of the name until we stop our offensive military operations and begin the systematic withdrawal of all our forces . . ."

He also is willing for the U.S. to dump the present Saigon government and let the Communists pick up the pieces.

Apparently Sen. McGovern continues to show no concern for South Vietnam or the agonizing realities that have plagued four successive U.S. administrations. Pronouncements such as his will only make President Nixon's plan for peace with honor a little more difficult to achieve.

Day Of Sober Celebration

If there is a day on which Americans should celebrate, the Fourth of July is it. This date marks what was the beginning of our nation — its declaration of independence. Thus, what we celebrate today is the birth of our freedom and the establishment of a way of life that none of us would trade for any other.

It is a way of life while countless millions have sought out for themselves by leaving their native land and coming to America. Our democracy has become the world citadel of freedom and in this we ought to have a great deal of pride.

In these troubled times in which we live, it is not easy to achieve a full understanding of things. Thus, there is often confusion when it comes to something such as pride or patriotism. One hesitates to place too much emphasis on patriotism, lest he be accused of blind devotion to a cause and thoughtless pursuit of spoon-fed principles.

But the truth is that the times have not diminished the need for patriotism nor lowered it in esteem. We need to be a nation of people jealous of our freedom and our rights and proud of what we have accomplished.

At the same time, we need to be realistic, to know that we have not reached perfection and that there are many things in the affairs of mankind that remain to be done. Thus, we should be thankful today for what the nation is and determined to make it even better in the future.

Senate's Debate Over Confirmation Of Otepka Brings Speculation On McCarthyism's Return

WASHINGTON — On July 4, 1951, during the Joseph McCarthy era, the Madison Capital Times in Wisconsin circulated a copy of the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights in a Fourth of July crowd, seeking signatures.

Out of 112 people approached, only one would sign the two documents on which rest our basic freedoms.

Those who refused to sign called the documents "communistic," and remarked that the "FBI ought to check up on this sort of thing," or that "My family is with the government and signing this might get them into trouble."

One man, reading Thomas Jefferson's stirring words, "Whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it," remarked: "That sounds Russian to me."

Their refusal to sign was first due to ignorance, second to fear. Many had not taken the trouble to read the great words which founded the Republic.

☆ ☆ ☆

The United States has come a long way from those days when the McCarthy committee reached into the State Department to find out what books were on its shelves, and into the churches to plague certain bishops who did not agree with the late senator from Wisconsin.

It has been 15 years since those days of fear and political persecution Unfortunately, however, there are signs, faint at the moment but growing, that some of the fear of those McCarthy days is returning.

One sign is a private admission by the telephone company that it has received more requests from the Justice Department for wiretaps than ever before in history. There is also evidence that a small but persistent group of Americans is pushing the Nazi doctrine and preaching the idea that we made a mistake in fighting against Hitler.

Finally, there was the battle on the floor of the Senate last week over the confirmation of a product of the old McCarthy era, Otto Otepka, which ended by putting him on a board designed to sit in judgment on the loyalty of its fellow men, just as Joe McCarthy did back in the days when people were afraid to sign the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights.

The debate over the Senate's confirmation of Otepka is significant. It showed some well-meaning and usually enlightened senators taking the same complacent view today that many senators did during the beginning of McCarthyism.

Not so some of the oldtimers who had lived through the McCarthy era. Clint Anderson, N.M., Clifford Case, N.J., Bill Fulbright, Ark., Warren Magnuson, Wash., Mike Mansfield, Mont., Stuart Symington, Mo., John Sherman Cooper, Ky., Ed Muskie, Me., Gene McCarthy, Minn., George McGovern, S.D., together with many hard-hitting younger senators such as Ted Kennedy and Joe Tydings, voted to send the Otepka nomination back to committee.

So did Steve Young, elder statesman from Ohio, who delivered a ringing warning that: "It has been established beyond any possible doubt that the Liberty Lobby, headed by Willis Carto, whose fascist inclinations and associations have been well documented, was one of his (Otepka's) staunchest champions. That neo-Nazi lunatic group produced and distributed a film entitled 'The Otepka Case.'"

Warned Charlie Goodell, New York Republican: "The Internal Security Act which created this board (on which Otepka is to serve) was enacted at the height of the Joseph McCarthy era. President Truman, with the full support of J. Edgar Hoover, recognized its dangers and vetoed it."

Tax Reform Over Texas

DALLAS, Texas — "The reform" has a sinister sound here in the capital of petroleum. It has the look of a dagger pointed at the heart of the tax privileges that oil, along with all other minerals, has enjoyed for more than 40 years.

The 27½ per cent knocked off the oil producer's income for a "wasting asset" is the most conspicuous of these privileges. But there is another even dearer to the industry. This concerns the "intangibles," a word in the oil man's vocabulary equivalent to motherhood or patriotism.

It works like this. As an oil operator, whether an independent or one of the majors, 60 to 70 per cent of drilling costs are immediately deductible. And that applies if it is a dry hole or a big producer. In the infancy of the industry, the idea was to provide an incentive to get more and more of the black stuff out of the earth.

Parlaying the 27½ per cent and the intangibles explains how some of the richest men in the country pay little or no federal income tax. The 27½ per cent skimmed off the top means on very large incomes a generous wherewithal. The 60 to 70 per cent deducted for intangibles allows the resourceful operator to acquire and exploit constantly increasing new holdings.

☆ ☆ ☆

A standout in this league is H. L. Hunt. A legendary figure both for his penuriousness and his wealth, which rivals put at between $600 million and $1 billion, he is the No. 1 independent with operations around the globe as well as in a half-dozen states, including Alaska.

For a number of years he paid either no tax or miniscule amounts as measured against his fabulous income.

Hunt is a painful subject for the new breed of oil men concerned in their discreetly elegant board rooms over the industry's poor public relations. They talk science and technology and the need for ever larger amounts of capital as oil exploration becomes more and more costly. Feeling the hot breath of the tax reformers, they consider the eccentric billionaires out of the pioneering wildcat era an embarrassment.

Without the tax privileges, these sober finance men say, it will be impossible to find the $200 billion in capital required to supply the nations petroleum needs through 1980. Inevitably, the talk turns to the industry's greatest derring-do — the huge find on the Arctic slope in Alaska.

That endeavor staggers the imagination. The pipe line from Prudhoe Bay on Alaska's extreme northern boundary across 800 miles of frozen tundra to Valdez in the south must be built on stilts. It will cost by conservative estimate $1 billion.

Despite the Nixon pledge in last year's campaign that the 27½ per cent will stand, the threat of reform is real. Those who have long argued the need to close a whole series of loopholes are riding the tide of a taxpayers' revolt. The National Committee on Tax Justice headed by former Senator Paul H. Douglas, a zealous advocate of tax reforms throughout his career, estimates an annual revenue gain of $1.6 billion by eliminating the depletion allowance and the deduction for intangibles.

Within the oil industry, there is no unanimity on how to face the enemy. Bolder spirits, such as Robert G. Dunlop of Sun Oil, call for an offensive—demand a higher allowance, 30 to 33 per cent, as essential toe cope with the country's expanding oil requirements. While it is still only a whisper, the realists are beginning to suggest that compromise is in order. They pull back at the thought that opening the door to any reduction will mean eventually abolishing the whole works.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., hardly an enemy of big business, proposed a cut to 20 per cent. This would be done in three stages at 2½ per cent a year. With some Republican backing for the Democrats determined on tax reform in the Senate, that would seem to be the likely result.

Careful Driving

Lincoln, Neb.

It's a shame that a beautiful city such as Lincoln should have drivers who seem to be almost unconscious at times. They should all go back to kindergarten or driving school so they will know where and when to stop.

They stop over crosswalks just as people are crossing.

They don't yield, even when right-of-way signs are posted.

They turn corners as people are crossing, and don't slow down.

Some day someone will be hit and all the driver will be able to say is that he couldn't stop in time. That is rather late, I would say, to learn.

Why don't all drivers practice what they surely once knew? They should get in the practice of saving lives. We all don't have that much time to live.

The Little Guys

Lincoln, Neb.

I'm getting pretty tired of picking up the paper every day and the first thing to read is about raises for city officials, the school superintendent, teachers, university officials, university teachers, county officials, state senators, etc.

Seems they spend most of their time figuring out how much to raise taxes to pay for all of this, and it's the little guys making a bare living who pay for it. Then in the next breath, they tell what should be done for the poor. They go out looking over the property and telling how bad it is. By the time most of us get our taxes paid, we don't have money left to keep up our property. But this leads to urban renewal, which we voted out twice and then through a lot of string-pulling, our very talented state senators passed.

Who is scratching who's back? I think it's time we got some city, county and state officials who can say "no" to a lot of unnecessary items, such as the mall and the tunnel from the Statehouse, to mention a few.

Why was Lincoln General too old and rundown to use, when the county officials subsequently bought St. Elizabeth?

No one should expect any consideration on revaluation of his property if he asks. I tried and was brushed off like so much dirt, by a tableful of men at the courthouse last year.

The federal programs are the same. As soon as they get an appropriation, they raise their own salaries and hire new people, and then most of the program money is gone.

I really don't expect this letter to be published, but just how stupid are we who are struggling to keep our heads above water?

STRUGGLING WIDOW

Positive Action

Fremont, Neb.

There is no political power greater than that of an informed citizenry. The people of the United States, properly informed and motivated, can be counted upon to take the necessary lawful political action.

The urgent question today is: "How long will you sit idly by while your tax money is being used by politicians to support non-working masses being used by revolutionaries as 'shock troops' to destroy your country?"

Positive constructive action by law-abiding, productive, taxpaying citizens of this country — white, Negro, yellow and brown — is long overdue. This is a decisive period of history and we have a decisive part to play.

What more motivation do we need?

Mark Of Greatness

Lincoln, Neb.

This is a great country of ours. No better day than today, the official independence day of history, to think about it. Probably all of us become disillusioned and discouraged by current trends and wrongs, but still, basically, the country remains great.

It remains the responsibility of each of us to see that it stays thus, and improves. The inequities can be corrected, some of the wrongs made right. We hear it said often, "What can I, one person, do?" Well, each has to do what he can and never let up. We can do things individually and we can do things collectively, but we can never quit trying no matter how small or seemingly futile the effort.

Our country was born in greatness, and we must never forget it. It was a heritage that we must preserve at all costs.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

The long summer days are here in Ireland now. In this north latitude, twilight comes lingering at 11 in the night. (We are level with Labrador.) The sun rises over the green hills at four. Galway Bay sparkles with instant gold.

A caravan of tinkers is passing through, camped down by the water. Their cooking fires send up little plumes of smoke between the painted wagons.

"The traveling people" they call them. Irish gypsy folk—they give you a great merry shout when you pass by.

"And steal all not guarded with both eyes," they say here, "and that gone if you but wink."

The shawled women beg in town. The government tries to house and settle them.

"But it's of no use. For the urge comes upon them, and they're up and off on the roads again."

In our thatched cottage, the household rises with small groans. The moppets come out of the loft bedroom in rumpled pajamas.

We bank the peat fire with ashes when we go to bed.

When we rake it in the morning there's a bed of glowing coals. Drop a few sticks on, prop up three bricks of peat and you've a fire blazing warm and cheerful in no time.

The big kitchen-living room is the center of the house. The great fireplace is the living heart. It is hung with pothooks. And there are two stone seats inside the fireplace itself.

☆ ☆ ☆

Breakfast is Irish bacon and country eggs. The bacon is saltier than ours at home. More meat, something like thin sliced ham.

Milk comes from a farmhouse two doors down — the cows are often in our front yard. It comes F.O.B. from the cow — no cream extracted. We pour cream off the top of the bottle.

This cottage is a government project. Built for tourist rental. So there is a modern electric kitchen off the big room

We live like princes in Ballyvaughan.

☆ ☆ ☆

This is west country. The creamy fishermen's sweaters are woven in bulky pattern. The lanolin not washed out. It waterproofs it.

(They say each family has a different pattern so that a drowned fisherman may be known by his sweater when the body washes ashore.)

It is the country of the mythical Irish fairies — the Good People. Put out brown bread and a jug of milk and they'll come in and do your dishes during the night.

(However we've hired a girl. It comes to 60 cents an hour. Certainly no extravagance and more reliable than fairies who may be busy casting spells.)

☆ ☆ ☆

"The Good People have a great liking for human babes," the story goes, "and who should know better than a tailor who came to a farmhouse with a child in the cradle.

"Now the wife went out. And as the tailor sat there sewing, the infant sat up and whipped a tiny fiddle and bow from under the covers. It struck up a lively tune. The tailor's feet began to move. And jig he must till he was worn out for it was all magic."

It was a fairy child. And not even real, but only a made up thing that the fairies had substituted for the woman's own child.

But the tailor was able to break the spell by clever means. (All tailors are clever.) The real child was found and restored. And the other sent packing.

☆ ☆ ☆

If it's a fine day, we have breakfast at the big table in the center of the flag-stoned room.

But if it's rainy, we sit inside by the fireplace. The turf burning warmly and the thatched house snug and cozy against the Atlantic wind.

Gov. Tiemann Warns Legislature 'Not To Play Footsies' With State's General Fund Balance

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann Thursday warned the Legislature "not to play footsies" with the state's $34.3 million general fund balance, but to rely on new tax revenues to fund new programs in the 1969-71 biennial budget.

While the balance is "a healthy situation," Tiemann said, this general fund cushion is "necessary to operate state government."

At a news conference, the governor warned lawmakers, now in recess until Monday, to keep their hands off the balance.

"Unless this is done," he said, "it could mean a deficit at the end of the next biennium (June 30, 1971)."

Tiemann also called for the restoration of $17 million cut from the executive budget by the Legislature.

"The Legislature can't expect state government to operate on the budget recommended by the Budget Committee," he said.

However, the governor warned the Legislature against "restoring budget cuts or funding new programs by dipping into reserves," but to rely on future sales and income revenues.

Tiemann was aided by State Accountant Bob Yeager and Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil in explaining the apparent disparity between the $34.4 million "cash" balance at the end of the 1967-69 biennium this week and the $22.2 million that had been estimated loast December by the Tiemann administration.

Yeager said the general fund balance should be "more realistically" viewed as $24.1 million — or only $1.9 million higher than the December estimate of $22.2 million.

To obtain the more comparable figures, Yeager said, $6.9 million in lapsed (unexpended) appropriations, $3.3 million in reappropriated funds and $2.4 in "escrowed" school aid money must be subtracted from the $34.4 million "cash" balance.

The general fund balance must be viewed "with the holds on it," he said in citing the $25 million in state school aid that will go out in December. "Balances must be built up so the money will be there when it has to go out."

McNeil said last December estimates on tax revenues were also a factor in the general fund balance estimate.

Individual income taxes of $39 million were "about $4 million higher than estimated," according to McNeil, and the corporate tax take will be $1 million less than the $8 million estimated.

Last December, Tiemann unsuccessfully appealed to the Legislature not to let the sales tax drop from 2½% to 2% on Jan. 1 because of the need to build balances for the next biennium.

Meeting Scheduled On Lincoln-Omaha Airport Planning

Lincoln and Omaha city and aviation officials have been invited to a July 11 meeting in Omaha to discuss future planning for an airport between the two cities, Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann said Thursday.

Tiemann said the meeting's purpose is "to coordinate thinking" regarding a supersize airport that will be needed to handle the supersonic, jumbo size passenger jets of the not-too-distant future.

State Planning Coordinator Douglas Bereuter is correct in his recent ooservations that the existing airports of Lincoln and Omaha would become obsolete for the large passenger jets of the future, he said.

Tiemann said the airports would be needed for other aviation requirements, but will be outgrown by some of volume-carrying passenger jets of the future.

Tiemann also announced he and key department heads will meet July 25 with mayors and councilmen of Nebraska's larger cities to discuss mutual problems

The meeting will be similar to an early one to which Omaha and Lincoln officials were invited to discuss mutual problems with state officials.

One meeting topic, Tiemann said, probably will be the develpoment of working partnership between the cities and the state regarding distribution of "block grant" federal funds.

"Some mayors have suggested the state be by-passed in distributing federal funds under the 1968 safe streets act," Tiemann said.

The governor also announced the reappointment of six members of the Advisory Committee to the Department of Economic Development for four-year terms.

They are Bennett S. Martin of Lincoln, present chairman; Calvin L. Hayes of South Sioux City, Carlin Whitesell and Bob Runice, both of Omaha, Gary Carpenter of Scottsbluff and Neil Colerick of Alliance.

Evening Ceremony

At a double ring service on Thursday evening, July 3, the wedding of Miss Terry Anne Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Smith, and Gary Lynn Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thompson, took place at the Northeast Community Church.

Miss Mary Margaret Smith, as her sister's maid of honor, bridesmaids Miss Sandi Rosewell and Miss Cindy Williams of Denver, Colo., and bridesmatron, Mrs. Red Dewey, appeared in alike, floor-length frocks of yellow taffeta with an overlay of yellow chiffon. They completed their costumes with yellow, shoulder-length veils and their bouquets were yellow-centered white daisies.

Michael Pueppke served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Rod Dewey, Robert Scott, Thomas Ochsner, George Knight, Daryl Shuckman and Ray Nielson.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of ivory-toned satin. The Empire bodice, designed with a portrait neckline, brief sleeves and patterned with pearl-embroidered Alencon lace, was smoothly fitted above the long, A-Line skirt which was completed with a train that extended from mid-back into cathedral length. A jeweled lace calot held in place her three-tiered, shoulder-length veil.

Mr. Thompson attended the University of Nebraska, where he is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, and was graduated from Doane College where he majored in physical education. He will be a member of the faculty and also will coach in one of the high schools in the Los Angeles area.

The News In Suburbia

Parades, picnics and fireworks displays are all part of the many activities that are being planned around the Lincoln area in todays celebration of the Fourth of July. Amidst all of this festive mood we began wondering just who first suggested a Fourth of July celebration so, we decided to do a little investigating into its history.

Checking back through a few history books we found that in a letter John Adams had written to his wife in 1776 he had included a paragraph in which he said, "The second day of July 1776, will be the most memorable epocha in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, bells, bonfires, and illumination from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward for everyone." Well, Mr. Adams for some reason had the wrong date but the right idea since today we celebrate the Fourth of July much as he suggested.

As always the Fourth of July is a good time to take a three-day vacation and we have news of one today. Miss Joyce Tallon will return to her Casino Heights home on Sunday evening following a trip to Fullerton. While in Fullerton, Miss Tallon will be visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tallon.

But Fourth of July traveling isn't all of the travel news that we have today. Plans are underway for vacations which will occur later in the month and it even includes some news of a world traveler.

We are talking about Rex Draper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Draper. Rex will be leaving his Wedgewood Manor home on July 18th to fly to Puerto Rico where he will be participating in the Small Fry World Championship Basketball tournament. The tournament, which is being sponsored by the Salvation Army, will last a week.

Earlier this year the local Small Fry basketball team won the National Championship in Chicago, Ill. Since that time the boys have been selling candy throughout the Lincoln area to help raise money for their trip.

Camping is on the agenda for Jane and Julie Burroughs, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Max Burroughs. They are leaving their Eastridge home later this month to spend two weeks at different camps — Julie will be attending YWCA camp at Grandby, Colo., while Jane will be at Lake Mary Ranch Camp at Aurora.

Luncheon Compliments A Bride-Elect

Miss Sue Mohr, who has an August date for her marriage to Douglas Wisner, has few idle moments these days due to her well filled courtesy calendar.

One of the recent parties for Miss Mohr was the luncheon for which Mrs. Dan Keleher, Mrs. Henry Cox, Mrs. Albin Broz, Mrs. Harold Korinek, Mrs. Frank Meier and Mrs. Ruth Mitchell were hostesses when they entertained at the Hillcrest Country Club. Among the guests at the party were Mrs. Lee Sevier, grandmother of the bride-elect, and Mr. Wisner's two grandmothers, Mrs. Ann Johnson and Mrs. Ann Rea. During the informal after-luncheon hours Miss Mohr was presented with a miscellaneous shower.

In the picture, standing left to right, are Mrs. Ekeleher, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Marvin Mohr, and Mrs. Dale Wisner.

Coed Is Bride

At St. John's Church on Wednesday evening, July 2, the marriage of Miss Catherine Louise Yearley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan K. Yearley, to Stephen Lee Lucas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Lucas of Unadilla, took place at a 7 o'clock ceremony.

The three attendants, Miss Rayma Tharnish, the maid of honor, and bridesmaids Miss Jeanne Maloelpszy and Miss Peggy Mahoney appeared in long-sleeved, floor-length frocks of pink voile designed in the Empire mode. Their nosegays were fashioned of pink carnations, daisies and baby's breath.

Robert Stohlman of Louisville, served as best man, and the ushers were Ronald Wilhelm of Unadilla and Loren Rolphs of Omaha.

Satin and Alencon lace fashioned the gown worn by the bride. Appliqued motifs of the lace patterned the long-sleeved Empire bodice and was repeated on the floor-length, silhouette skirt and on the detachable cotillion length train. A pillbox hat of jeweled lace held in place her triple-tiered, lace-bordered veil of English illusion, and she carried a satin covered Bible ornamented with a luster of pink sweetheart roses and pink rosebuds.

Upon their return from a honeymoon trip to the Rocky Mountains Mr. Lucas and his bride will reside at 1336 E Street in Lincoln.

The bride is attending the University of Nebraska from where Mr. Lucas will be graduated in January. His fraternity is Alpha Gamma Rho.

Phi Delta Gamma Plans Convention

We've given a thought or two as to how Phi Delta Gamma could shorten its name. If you left off Gamma you would have Phi Delt, and if you left out Delta you would have Phi Gam — and neither are even remotely involved in Phi Delta Gamma.

Phi Delta Gamma, you see, is a fraternity for women graduate students, and for women who recently have completed graduate study.

Tau chapter is the Lincoln chapter of the fraternity, and just a week ago it was up to its ears in plans in addition to rolling out the red carpet. The plan-making had to do with the fraternity's national convention which is to be held in Lincoln on Friday and Saturday, June 26 and 27, 1970. The convention sessions will be at the Nebraska Center.

The red carpet angle involved Phi Delta Gamma officers from near and far who were here for the planning conference.

In the picture we find the convention planners doing a bit of relaxing in the garden at the home of one its members, Mrs. Harry Hegstrom, and left to right are:

Miss Ethel Sweet, president of Tau chapter; Miss Lucy Rumley of Washington, D.C., national parliamentarian; Miss Francis Ware, national editor, also of Washington, Miss Patricia Fox, national executive secretary, of Wauwatosa, Wis.; Mrs. Virginia Wynn, past national president, of Lomita, Calif.; Mrs. M. F. Herman of Omaha, national president; Dr. B. Lucile Bowie of College Park, Md., national treasurer; Miss Joan Graves of Washington, D.C., national vice-president; Mrs. Hegstrom, Miss Janet Mahlman of Lincoln, national secretary, and Mrs. Robert DenHartog, first vice-president of Tau chapter.

Bridge: quiz day

B. Jay Becker

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	Dble	Pass	?

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠AJ72 ♥8 ♦Q64 ♣KJ953
2. ♠10 ♥9652 ♦8753 ♣AK96
3. ♠QJ85 ♥Q764 ♦6 ♣AQ83
4. ♠J6 ♥J85 ♦AJ62 ♣KQ74
5. ♠J43 ♥KQJ8752 ♦10 ♣K6

1. Three clubs. North's double shows the values for an opening bid and support for at least two of the three available suits. This hand is consequently likely to produce a game, though the final contract is uncertain at the moment.

One way of assessing the hand is to imagine that partner has opened as dealer, either with a club or a spade. You would surely press on to game in such case, which is what you are doing when you jump to three clubs. You bid clubs ahead of spades to show their greater length. You will probably get the chance to bid spades later and thus pinpoint a four-card suit.

2. One heart. It is true that this response does not identify any strength, when actually you do have some values, but this hand does not justify a jump response. If partner does not bid over one heart, there is very little hope for a game.

Note that the response is one heart, not two clubs. You are far more interested in finding a heart fit than a club fit, for major suit games are easier to make than minor suit games.

3. Two diamonds. Game is extremely likely opposite the double, but it would be inadvisable to make a jump response in any of our four-card suits. Rather than guess which suit would serve best as trump, you force partner to choose it by cuebidding the opponent's suit.

4. Two notrump. Here the most promising game contract is notrump rather than a suit, and you inform partner of this by jumping to two notrump. With 12 high-card points facing a double, you must take a very rosy view of your game prospects. The lack of major suit strength is no bar to the jump response, since partner is marked with both length and strength in those suits.

5. Four hearts. There is no use pussyfooting when it is obvious that the best contract is four hearts and that a delicate approach is unnecessary. Furthermore, the jump to game has great descriptive value, since it emphasizes distribution instead of high-card strength and thus enables partner to judge what action to take if the opponents bid again.

Thursday Wedding

The marriage of Miss Penny Siemering, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Corbin C. Siemering, to Jerry Roth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Roth, took place at a 7:30 o'clock ceremony on Thursday evening, July 3, at the Havelock Missionary Alliance Church. The Rev. Ron Adrian of the East Side Baptist Church

Mrs. Leonard Nixon, as her sister's matron of honor, and bridesmaids Miss Peggy Chriswisser and Miss Jackie Roth, sister of the bridegroom, wore alike, floor-length frocks of pink silk organza over matching taffeta. Each carried a basket of pink and white daisies.

Kelly Kolb served as best man, and seating the guests were Larry Rahe, Gerald Bahr and Roger Allen.

The bride appeared in a gown of organza with an overlay of Chantilly lace. The long-sleeved Empire bodice was designed with a sabrina neckline and the silhouette A-line skirt was floor-length. A court train fashioned of tiers of lace and extending from the shoulders into cotillion length gave back interest to the gown.

Mr. Roth who is serving with the U.S. Navy, and his bride will reside in New London, Conn.

Abby

DEAR ABBY: Hurry your answer please. I have to know before I tell the printer how to word the wedding invitations.

You see, my daughter is getting married and we are presently planning her wedding. Her father and I are in the process of getting a divorce, but we have not made any public announcement yet and nobody knows it, but we've had a miserable marriage for 22 years. If this divorce news breaks before the wedding how should the wedding invitations be worded?

IN A RUSH

DEAR IN: I suggest you make a deal with your husband and postpone the "divorce announcement" until after your daughter's wedding. If you've had a "miserable marriage" for 22 years, another few months won't make any difference.

DEAR ABBY: I have something to say to the husband who likes to be chased around the bedroom once in a while. (The boob I married about a year ago called this letter to my attention.)

I used to chase my husband around the bedroom, too, but we had a very short honeymoon. How long would YOU chase a guy who sleeps in thermal underwear and puts VICKS up his nose before he turns out the light?

Mrs. Svendsbye, who is the former Helen Bundy and who for a number of years was a teacher in the rural schools in the Lincoln area, is the house guest of her sister, Mrs. Ted Meyer in rural Lincoln.

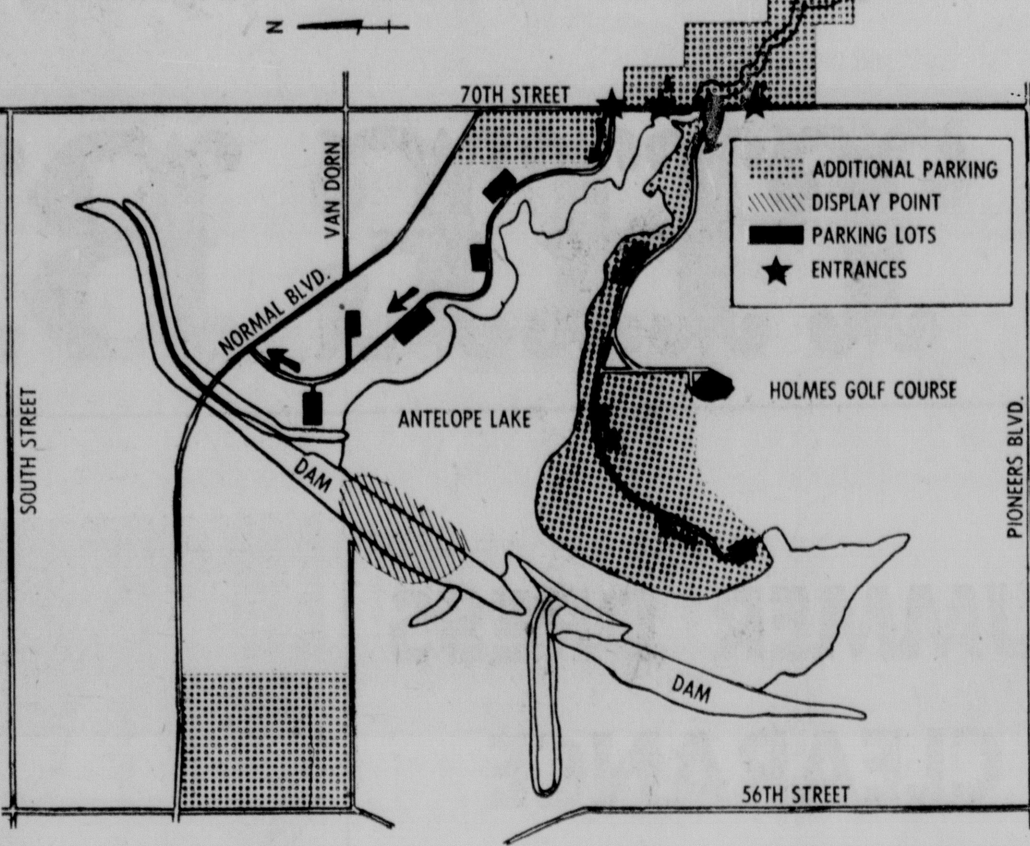
Traffic Plan Set For Holmes Display



Traffic into Holmes Park Friday evening for the July 4 community fireworks display will be limited to using the 70th St. entrance.

All other streets leading into Holmes Park will be closed prior to the fireworks celebration.

The celebration starts at 7:30 p.m. when the Lincoln Municipal Band will present a concert of patriotic music.

Fireworks officials said no parking will be allowed along the roads.

Traffic entering the park from 70th St. will be directed to designated parking areas.

Officials said that 70th St. will be made into a one-way street following the celebration.

Those leaving the park south of Antelope Lake must proceed south on 70th St. while those leaving from the area north of the lake will exit onto Normal Blvd. and then may either turn left or right.

Cars turning right onto Normal Blvd. must proceed north on 70th St.

Police officials' estimate of crowds last year ranged from 30,000 to 50,000 people.

Special Care Urged For Holiday; Highway Death Toll Down For Year

By DAVE ZIMMERMAN
Star Staff Writer

With camp coolers full and tempers usually short, the American family is keyed up for that greatest of U.S. holidays — the Fourth of July.

In many cases, a burgeoning vehicle harboring a scatter determined to reach its destination beyond two time zones before it gets dark, will lumber out of its driveway at the crack of dawn.

And nearly all will make it.

The family dog may have grown hoarse from continual barking and the kids may have staged a final hassle over the deployment of the firecracker arsenal in the back seat, but most will arrive.

Those 8, 9, 10, or 11 Nebraskans who don't show up will become sad statistics to frighten next year's holiday travelers.

Up to this summer's second long holiday, Nebraska has been doing well so far as highway deaths are concerned.

Last year at this time 212 lives had already been lost, but this year only 172 have been fatally injured in traffic mishaps

The 25% reduction is attributed to many factors and some officials theorize it could be due to the exceptionally bad weather during the first part of the year, which may have reduced traffic throughout most of the state.

However, Tom Ryan of the State Patrol's accident record bureau said he feels it is due in part to new highway safety programs and to recently passed highway safety standards and other related legislation.

Defensive driving courses seems to be key to fewer automobile accidents, he said, and such training takes a new tack in safety training in that it teaches drivers to "anticipate" trouble and to be prepared to take evasive action at any time.

Capt. Elmer Schroeder of the Patrol said that last year about 7,000 participated in defensive driving courses in 206 classes offered throughout the state.

About 2,500 took part in training session during the first quarter of 1969, he said.

"From the response we're getting," said Capt. Schroeder, "I'm sure drivers are getting a new concept of their responsiibilities."

Ryan added that the reduced accident rate for the first part of 1969, even with increaesd odds against drivers because of the nearly 3% traffic increase, the real credit must go to the individuals behind the wheel.

"When the accident rate is high we blame the driver," he said "They also get the credit when the rate drops."

John Hancock Agents In Lincoln Join Strike

Insurance agents in Lincoln and across the nation have gone on strike against the John Hancock Insurance Co.

William Gillian, national president of the Insurance Workers International Union, of the AFL-CIO, said that when contract negotiations were broken off with Hancock Tuesday, the two groups were still "about $12.50 a week apart."

He said the union is asking for a raise of $29.93 per week while the Hancock people are offering a raise of $17.31 per week.

The strike is affecting about 7,000 agents nationally, Gillian said, and about 50 in Nebraska. Nearly all of these agents are in Omaha and Lincoln.

A John Hancock spokesman said the company thought workers were striking despite "the largest raise offer in the industry."

An average Hancock agent makes "170 a week," he noted.

Bob Schenaman, an agent from Lincoln Local 97, said that a similar strike by another company lasted about nine weeks.

For the duration of the strike, no agents would be able to help service claims or handle insurance problems, he said.

City To Act On Road Bill Resolution

The Lincoln City Council Monday wili take action on a resolution which urges State Senators from Lincoln and Lancaster County to vote for the highway revenue bills before the Legislature.

The resolution states that the bills are of "utmost importance to the welfare of Lincoln and of equal importance to the economic development of all of the State of Nebraska."

"We are asking that our legislators vote for the highway revenue bills because of the critical need in Lincoln for more revenue for highway needs," Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said Thursday.

Mayor Schwartzkopf pointed out that a Nebraska road study emphasized that Nebraska's greatest roadway needs are in the urban areas.

He pointed out that the city has an ongoing 20-year street improvement program with only $30 million projected to be available during the period.

"This leaves us with a 70% deficit in our program," he said.

The mayor pointed out that Lincoln taxpayers are already paying all of their special paving district assessments, an $8 wheel tax, and 8.2 mills of their 29.75 mills in city taxes for street and related traffic costs.

One highway bili would increase the amount of state aid to cities for street use and another would pay for the maintenance on state highways within the city limits.

Exon Criticizes State Tax Policy; Calls For Probe

Democratic National Committeeman James Exon said Thursday the Tiemann administration is practicing a policy of "designed deceit of the Nebraska taxpayer."

Exon called upon the Legislature to investigate the general fund surplus of some $34 million, and to "hold the sales tax to its present 2% level if that figure, coupled with the mounting tax surpluses, will meet the vital needs of the state for the next biennium."

The Tiemann administration "deliberately underestimated" sales and income tax revenue during the past biennium "for political purposes," Exon charged.

The Dynastic Problem

New York — Look at the Baltimore Orioles, running away from the rest of the American League. And look at the St. Louis Cardinals, floundering under .500 with the season half over. Then look back and appreciate how remarkable the New York Yankees used to be.

A popular word in sports literature is "dynasty." The daily sports historian, dredging up from his bewildered subconscious a dimly remembered and partially understood reference from some high school history class, begins applying the label "dynasty" to a team as soon as he predicts that last year's winner will win again.

According to the dictionary, one meaning of dynasty is "sovereignty, kingship, dominion." This meaning is also identified as "now rare." The other, more common meaning is: "A succession or race of kings, of the same line or family; the continued lordship of a race of rulers." That one can be applied properly enough, if one's literary taste is sufficiently undemanding, to a team that wins a string of championships.

The Yankees, of course, were the best example of a sports dynasty. Between 1921 and 1928 they won six pennants in eight years; from 1936 through 1943, seven in eight; from 1947 through 1964, they won 15 in 18 years. During those periods, when they didn't finish first they were never worse than third.

It's the consistency of the Yankee performance that makes it so striking, and pondering the reasons for it may provide insight into the current situation.

Baltimore, Cardinals Falter

Baltimore won the American League pennant in 1966, after several unsuccessful runs at it, when it added Frank Robinson to a strong squad. The final margin was nine games, but it had been 13½ as early as July 29. Then the Orioles swept the World Series in four straight games, with a group of young pitchers shutting out the Los Angeles Dodgers for the last three games.

Obviously, this was a dynasty in the making. But in 1967 Baltimore fell to sixth. In 1968, after a change of managers, a strong finish meant second place, but still 12 games behind the winner, Detroit. Yet now, with fundamentally the same team as in 1966, the Orioles are the class of the field again.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, squeaked through to a pennant, unexpectedly, in 1964 with an aging team. While it was being recast in 1965 and 1966, it fell to seventh and sixth. Then, in 1967 and 1968, St. Louis won the pennant by big margins and for this season, everyone agreed, the same basically strong squad was, if anything, better equipped to dominate an otherwise well-balanced league. Instead, the same players, under the same manager, have not been able to win half their games.

This roller-coaster effect is the rule, not the exception, in baseball history. The Dodgers, for instance, won pennants in 1963, 1965 and 1966 — but in 1964 they were sixth and in 1967 eighth. Dozens of examples can be cited.

Only the Yankees were different for a really prolonged period.

What made them different?

Yanks' Replacements Kept Coming

"The easiest thing to say," says Ralph Houk, who should know through first-hand experience as player, coach, manager and general manager, "is that the Yankees had some sort of special pride that kept them going. That's what a lot of people would say. But I don't believe it. I know ball players too well to doubt that the Cardinals or Orioles or anyone wants to win just as badly when they're going bad as when they're going good. Sure we had our Yankee pride, but there was more to it.

"The truth is that there really isn't that much difference between winning and losing. One man, two men can make all the diffference — and not always the men with the best statistics. It's the way things fit together, the way a few games can be turned around, the way momentum builds up when you start winning — and the other way when you start losing.

"If there's one thing you can pick out it's that we always had good replacements. Baltimore has that now. People always get hurt, or tired, or have slumps; when you can replace them and still have a winning line-up, that's when you roll."

Ah, but that's the real difference. In the Yankee Era it was possible to keep so rich a flow of new talent coming that good replacements were available every year. Either good young players moved in, or there were enough good young players to trade to fill holes.

Dynasties No Longer Possible

Today, the restrictions on farm systems, not to mention expansion and other factors, make this impossible for anyone. The Orioles can have a strong bench for a particular season, but their system can't be deep enough to withstand serious injuries, slumps or aging over several seasons. Neither can the St. Louis system, or anyone's. So a team can be terrific one year, nowhere the next, then terrific again, with relatively little change in first-line personnel.

And from the viewpoint of that ultimate democracy called fandom, it's better this way. A dynasty, it turns out, is something the majority can very well do without.

Heart Attack Is Fatal To Iron Mike Dibiase

Lubbock, Tex. (AP) — Mike DiBiase, 45, a wrestler known as Iron Mike, collapsed and died during a match Wednesday night. A preliminary diagnosis was death from a heart attack. An autopsy was ordered.

DiBiase was a former AAU champion at the University of Nebraska.

Phils Seek 10th Win In Row, Vs. Montreal

. . . LONGEST CLUB MARK SINCE 1955

By Associated Press

While Richie Allen says he can live without the Philadelphia Phillies, the Phillies are doing a pretty good job of living without Allen.

Manager Bob Skinner's Phillies came home Thursday with a nine-game winning streak, the club's second longest since 1900. The 1955 team had an 11-game victory binge.

The Phils had to wait until tonight to bid for No. 10, however, when they host Montreal after taking Thursday to rest.

Meanwhile, another surging NL team continued its winning ways. The New York Mets, after a 14-inning victory over St. Louis Wednesday night, followed with an 8-1 win over the Cards in Thursday's game.

Atlanta edged San Francisco, 5-4, Chicago whipped Montreal, 8-4, and Cincinnati battled Los Angeles in other National League games.

In the American League Thursday, California dropped Kansas City, 4-3, Detroit edged Boston, 4-3, and Cleveland stopped Washington, 7-2. Minnesota nipped Chicago, 5-4, in 11 innings and Oakland hit Seattle, 6-4.

The amazing part of the winning surge which has carried the Phillies to within a game of third place in the National League's Eastern Division, is that they did it with what almost amounts to a Triple A roster.

Skinner disclaims the use of mirrors or any other magic. He's winning without Allen, one of the league's top sluggers, and regulars Deron Johnson, John Callison and Don Money, plus starting pitcher Rick Wise.

Johnson and Callison were injured. Money and Wise were away in the Army reserves for two weeks. Allen, of course, is under indefinite suspension without pay for failing to show up at a doubleheader June 24 in New York. Johnson is ready to play and Money returned Sunday, but neither can break into the lineup.

"It's like championship teams I've played on," said Skinner, admitting he isn't envisioning any pennants this year for his young ball club. "We've got Money and Johnson ready, but how can you break up a winning lineup."

The manager said that even if Allen made amends and returned, he (Skinner) wouldn't be in a rush to put him back at first base.

In reference to Allen, Skinner said, "I'm not looking for an apology, but I've got to be convinced this will be a dedicated Rich Allen. No more late for games, no more missed practices. I know what kind of player he is, but there's no way he's going to dictate the rules. If he wants to play baseball he knows where the park is "

The Phillies started their streak June 25 in New York, beating the Mets 6-5 after trailing 5-0 in the sixth inning. They won the next day in New York, swept four from Montreal in Canada, and beat the Pirates three straight nights in Pittsburgh.

The big guns in the surge have been utility third baseman Ricardo Joseph, rookie outfielder Larry Hisle, outfielder John Briggs, utility shortstop Terry Harmon, outfielder Ron Stone and the pitching staff. Hisle is hitting over .400 during the streak, with Joseph a shade under that figure. Briggs has been hitting at a .387 pace. Harmon, Stone and catcher Mike Ryan have been standouts on defense and hit timely.

Left hander Grant Jackson with two victories leads the pitching. Rookie Billy Champion and Lowell Palmer, both recent graduates of the Pacific Coast League, and veteran Woodie Fryman also have been effective.

The big improvement, however, is in the bullpen. The Phillies were being slaughtered in the first part of the season when they went to their bullpen. All of a sudden, rookie Billy Wilson, and Al Raffo, and John Boozer, also recalled from the PCL, began to put out fires like fire extinguishers.

It's added up to nine straight.

Durousseau's 6 Wins Set Mark

By KENT SAVERY
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Scorching temperatures hit Omaha Thursday, but L. J. Durousseau was even hotter than the weather.

Durousseau, the leading jockey at Ak-Sar-Ben Field, booted home a track record six winners and also finished second once in the eight races he rode.

The six winners extended his meeting record to 84 winning mounts, 25 more than the record of 59 which he set last year. It also gave the Louisiana-born French Cajun an amazing 43 winners in the last 13 racing days.

The recent hot streak should keep, Durousseau high in this year's national jockey standings since he was fourth when figures were last released at the end of May and before his recent hot streak.

Durousseau's winning at Ak-Sar-Ben lately has become so regular that once Thursday the track announcer felt inspired to introduce him as "You Know Who" when he made one of his appearances in the winner's circle.

Durousseau, whose father was a top-notch jockey and owner of race horses in France, started off the day by winning both ends of the daily double aboard Ernie's Abbey in the first race and Regal Barr in the second.

The 27-year-old riding champ wasn't about to stop with just two quick winners and he came right back to take the third race aboard Gallant Voyage, which like many of his mounts, went off as the favorite.

Returning for the fifth race, L. J. chalked up his fourth straight win of the day aboard heavily favored Nepal 2nd.

In the sixth race his string was expected to come to an end atop Garry's Own, rated only 8-1 despite his super jockey. But when the horses headed into the stretch, up came Garry's Own on the outside to sweep past the field and give L. J. win No. 5.

That tied the track record set by Dean Hall in 1961 and tied May 23 of this year by Durousseau.

Fans were shaking their heads in disbelief by this time as L. J. had yet to taste defeat and was scheduledt to ride the favored Jimmie Lou, owned by M. H. Van Berg, in the seventh.

At last the string was snapped as jockey Wendell Leeling brought in Ferns Golden Boy ahead of Jimmie Lou and L. J. in a blistering 1:09 six-furlong jaunt.

Durousseau, however, was not through. In the featured eighth race, the Ak-Sar Ben Juvenile Stakes, L. J. coaxed Paul's Domino to an early lead and held it all the way to score a stunning upset over heavily-favored (2-5) Native Heritage, ridden by Jimmy Nichols, an import from Chicago's Arlington Park.

Toni Churchill In Jump Finals

Dayton, Ohio — Fourteen-year-old Lincoln high jumper Toni Churchill was among 13 qualifiers in her event here Wednesday at the Women's National AAU Track and Field Championships.

Toni cleared the qualifying height of 5-3 and moved into the Thursday night finals. The current national and American girls' division mark is 5-7, set in 1963 by Eleanor Montgomery.

Three other entries competing for the Nebraska Track Club, Carol Frost, Ranee Kletchka and Elise Mahoney, are not scheduled to perform until Saturday.

Sikes, Blancas Share Buick Open Golf Lead

Flint, Mich. (AP) — Slim dark Dick Sikes broke out of a three-month slump Thursday, fired a course record-matching 65 and tied Homero Blancas for the first-round lead in the $125,000 Buick Open Golf Tournament.

Blancas, a University of Houston graduate, had been in the clubhouse for hours when Sikes matched his seven-under-par effort on the 7,001-yard, par 72 Warwick Hills Country Club course.

They had a two-stroke lead on a quintet that included Deane Beman, the man who beat Sikes for the 1963 U.S. amateur title.

The others in that group were Terry Dill, Don Dies, big Bob Lunn and Bob Dickson.

Seven more were just one stroke back at 68, including veteran Jack McGowan, Dave Hill and Lee Elder.

Par took a terrible beating in the perfect golfing weather — temperatures in the 70s and practically no wind — with 51 in the field of 144 matching or breaking par.

A group of nine were tied at 69, including defending champion Tom Weiskopf, 57-year-old Sam Snead and the year's leading money-winner, Gene Littler.

HOMERO BLANCAS

Bruce Crampton of Australia and Frank Beard, two of the three tournament favorites, were in a big bunch at 70.

Most of the game's top names bypassed this event in favor of next week's British Open. Among the missing are Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Orville Moody, Lee Trevino and Arnold Palmer.

Blancas, 31, a nonwinner since 1966, had five birdies, an eagle and shot a single bogey in his remarkable round.

He got the eagle with a 130-foot, nine iron shot on the sixth hole and ran in three birdie putts between 12 and 25 feet.

He also birdied No. 3 from eight feet and came out of a trap for a four-foot bird on No. 13.

Horse Racing Terms Defined, Lincoln Starts July 9

(Last of a Series)

For those who want to know more about the thoroughbred, the following two illustrations should be of interest.

Here, too, are the meanings of some of the more common terms used in racing:

Action — A horse with an even, smooth stride has good action.

Back stretch — The straightaway on the far side of the race track.

Blow out — A short, fast workout given a day or two before a race to sharpen a horse's condition.

Bug — (or bug boy) — An apprentice jockey, so-called because of the asterisk in the official program denoting that the weight carried includes the apprentice allowance.

Coupled — Two or more horses, belonging to the same owner, running as an entry in a race. The program number, regardless of post position, would be 1 and 1A. When you bet on an entry, one horse could win and the other finish last and you would still win.

Dead heat — When the photo-finish camera shows two horses inseparable at the finish, it is a dead heat. If they tie for the first, second or third, tickets on either horse (or both) pay off.

Furlong — One-eighth of a mile. Six-furlongs is the most common distance raced at the Fairgrounds.

Hand — A unit of four inches by which a horse's height is measured. A horse that measures 16 hands (about average for thoroughbreds) is 5-feet, 4-inches tall at the withers (shoulders.)

Juvenile — A 2-year-old horse.

Morning line — Approximate odds printed in the Fairgrounds program, forecasting how it is believed the betting will go in a particular race.

Post—The starting point for a race.

Post position—The horse's position in the starting gate from the inner rail outward.

Scratch—To scratch a horse is to withdraw him from a race.

Silks—The jacket and cap worn by a jockey.

Totalisator—A complicated piece of electronic equipment which records each wager in each bet pool at the moment the ticket is sold. The equipment also figures odds on each horse and the amount to be returned for each winning ticket.

Finally, there is one more term that, while not unknown, deserves mention:

Fairgrounds—The site of a thoroughbred race meeting, starting July 9 and ending Aug. 9. No races on Sundays or Mondays, except Aug. 7. Twilight starting time weekdays is 5 p.m. Post time is 2 p.m. on Saturdays.

Officials of the Fairgrounds, and this newspaper, hope this series has answered some of your questions about racing.

Laver Crushes Ashe In 4

Wimbledon, England (AP) — Rod Laver, the complete tennis artist at the top of his game, beat back a determined challenge from American Arthur Ashe 2-6, 6-2, 9-7, 6-0 in the semifinals Thursday, and defends his Wimbledon title against fellow-Australian John Newcombe on Saturday.

Newcombe, who won here in 1967, the year before Wimbledon opened its gates to the professionals, beat last year's runnerup, Tony Roche, in an all-Australian semifinal 3-6, 6-1, 14-12, 6-4.

And it means that for the second year straight — and the ninth time in 14 years — two Aussies will fight it out for the world's premier tennis crown.

The Newcombe-Roche match was an absorbing, cut-and-thrust affair that lasted 2 hours, 45 minutes, but it was the Laver-Ashe battle that most of the 15,000 spectators had been waiting for.

For one thing, Laver started as the hottest favorite of the year to keep the title. But as the tournament went on, there were signs that his crown was slipping slightly. He dropped a couple of sets in the earlier rounds to Premjit Lall of India and another couple to Stan Smith, the giant from Pasadena, Calif.

Ashe, on the other hand, had been improving with every match. Was he going to pull off the upset of the decade and knock out the undisputed world No. 1?

In the first set, it certainly looked that way. Ashe, like a whirlwind, almost blasted the titleholder off court with some power serving and meticulous backhand returns that broke Laver three times and grabbed the set, 6-2.

But the whirlwind blew itself out. Ashe couldn't keep up the pace and the canny Laver weathered the storm to play himself right back into the match.

The strength of the slightly-built, flame-haired Australian has always been in his resilience and ability to snatch winners when the point seems lost, and in the second set Laver showed the hallmarks of the true champion.

Ashe, confident and relaxed with the U.S. title nestling securely in his pocket, suddenly found himself under pressure as Laver went for the kill.

Columbus Legion Blasts Bankers

Dan Bernt's grand-slam homer highlighted a six-run second inning and Columbus went on to a 10-6 American Legion victory over First National Bank at Sherman Field Thursday night.

Ross Smith had a two-run double in the fifth and Bob Martens contributed two more hits for First National, which is now 3-8 for the season.

Roberts-Skyline scored the winning run on a passed ball in the bottom of the seventh to edge Crete, 9-8, in a midget opener.

Extra Camping Facilities Open For Holidays

An expected "flood of campers" over the Fourth of July holiday weekend has prompted the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission to open overflow areas on Pawnee Lake north of Emerald, according to Jack Strain, chief of the State Parks Division.

Strain said the overflow areas would have no camping facilities, just camping space, but would be available north of the regular north area and west of the regular west area at Pawnee Lake.

He said the special areas would be closed to camping following the holiday weekend.

Bankers Score 21 On Five Hits

Citizens' State Bank got only five hits, four of them by Ron Goldenstein, but combined them with walks and nine errors by the Tack Room for a 21-1 victory in AAA softball action Thursday night.

Goldenstein scored five runs and knocked in three others to pace Citizens' State.

Firecracker 400 Has Sizzling Field

Daytona Beach, Fla. (AP) — With some drivers predicting a "seven to 10-car shoot-out," the field was completed Thursday for the July 4 Medal of Honor Firecracker 400 mile stock car race.

"There will be at least seven cars capable of racing at speeds close to 190 miles per hour," said Ford driver Lee Roy Yarbrough. "I don't believe any one in this group will give an inch to any other driver."

A crowd of 40,000, including 87 Congressional Medal of Honor winners, is expected for the 10 a.m. start. A warmup race of 250 miles for grand touring cars of the Camaro, Mustang and Dart class got underway at midnight over the 3.81-mile Daytona International Speedway road course.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, Florida Gov. Claude Kirk, Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, and other dignitaries plan to be among the spectators.

Cale Yarborough, the lone factory Mercury driver in the field, appeared to be the odds-on favorite to win his third straight Firecracker. The 30-year-old Timmonsville, S.C. driver won last year at a record average speed of 167.247 miles per hour — the fastest auto race of that distance ever run.

Yarborough propped for this year's $98,000 Firecracker by constantly turning the fastest practice laps, then winning the pole spot at a fantastic 190.706 m.p.h. — a world record for a closed race course.

"The other drivers very well could be chasing Yarborough all day," said one veteran track observer. "He has the edge in speed, he's one of the world's best drivers and he knows this speedway like he does his living room."

Three Lincoln Softball Clubs Start Friday

Grand Island — Three Lincoln softball teams open play here Friday in the ASA State Girls' Division Tournament. The double elimination affair, which has drawn 16 entries, continues through Sunday.

Joy's Hit 'N Runs, the local district champion, meets the North Platte Youngs at 1:30 p.m.; the Mustangs take on the Grand Island Schuff's at 1:30 and the Randolph Merchants face Clarks at 10:30 a.m.

Joy's will play at 10:30 a.m. Saturday if they win, or 7:30 p.m. Friday if they lose, against either the winner or loser of a game between the Fremont Lumber Gills and Sidney Mods.

The Mustangs, if they should win, take on the survivors of the Fremont T-Birds and Twin City Travelers game at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, or the loser of that tilt at 9 p.m. Friday.

Randolph Merchants, if a winner Friday, return Saturday at 9 a.m. to meet the victor of the Aurora-Ansley game, or the loser of that game at 6 p.m. Friday.

Market Extends Winning Streak

New York (AP) — The stock market extended its winning streak through a fourth straight session Thursday, scoring a solid gain that helped it put together a winning week after weeks of decline.

"It's a good way to start off the Fourth of July holiday," a broker remarked.

The exchanges will be closed Friday in observance of Independence Day.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which scored gains in each of the week's three previous sessions, jumped ahead from the start. It was up 5.49 at 11:30 a.m., EDT, and although it dipped a bit after that, it firmed to close up 5.43 at 886.12.

The gain was the best of the week for the closely watched DJI, which picked up a total of 16.36 points on the week.

Gains led losses by better than 250 issues at the end of the first half-hour of trading and added to the advantage as trading continued. Of 1,576 issues traded, 904 advanced and 433 declined. New highs for the year totaled 15 and new lows 59.

Volume totaled 10.12 million shares, compared with 11.35 million Wednesday.

The Associated Press average of 60-stocks was up 1.1 to 314.3, with industrials up 2.7, rails off .1, and utilities up .4.

Blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 50, against 56 Wednesday.

Thirteen of the 20 most-active issues on the Big Board advanced, 4 declined, and 3 were unchanged.

Prices generally were higher on the American Stock Exchange.

The Amex index gained 29 cents to $28.64. Volume was 4.34 million shares, compared with 4.70 million Wednesday.

Slaughter Cattle Up At Omaha

Omaha (AP) — The slaughter cattle market lived up to tradition at Omaha this week. It staged a fourth of July rally.

It was a rather sedate rally, lacking anything in the way of holiday pyrotechnics. But what the market lacked in showmanship, it made up for in stability.

Three straight upturns left steer values for the shortened week fully 50-75 cents higher than last week's close. Heifers finished mostly 50 cents better.

Most advance was noted on choice and better offerings in both divisions, reflecting a like pattern in the carcass beef trade. There, choice and prime steer and heifer beef scored gains of as much as two dollars on the week, while good grades finished only 50 cents higher at best.

The market gained ground in the face of a cautious buyer stance. Demand grew increasingly selective as the week progressed with numbers becoming the primary governing factor.

Steer top moved up to 34.60 on the week, with numerous sales well-finished beeves from 33.60-34.50, bulk choice late 32.50-33.75. Good dairy breds noted 30.00-31.00. Heifers peaked at 34.00 for several loads, including some mixed yearlings. Fair offering choice to prime 33.35-33.75, most choice late 31.75-33.25.

The cow trade was very uneven throughout the week, with beef types under steady downward pressure. Beef types finished 25 cents or more lower and traded late on a weak basis. Boners were little changed. Bulls closed steady to firm.

Limited offerings of feeder cattle shaped up fully steady to strong.

A closing rally put hog prices over the top for the week. Thursday's 25-50 cent advance became the week's upturn, with butchers setting an extreme gain of 75 cents. Top hit 27.00 on the close, a three-year high.

Fat lambs rated a steady nod on the week, best springers early 30.75. Ewes sold steady to 50 higher.

Changes Small In Grain Mart

Chicago (AP) — The weather, problems of harvesting a crop and consumer demands exerted diverse influences on commodity futures last week on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Prices of most commodity futures moved within a relatively narrow range for the four sessions of the holiday week, except for the wide swings in nearby soybeans and in iced broilers.

When trade closed on Thursday for the week, wheat was ⅜ cents a bushel lower to ⅜ higher, July 1.26⅛. corn was unchanged to 1¼ cents higher, July 1.26¼; oats were unchanged to 1⅜ cents higher, July 61¾ cents; rye was unchanged to 1 cent higher, July 1.16¼; and soybeans were 1⅛ cents lower to 2¾ cents higher, July 2.66¾.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Nonpolitical Meanings Of Independence Viewed

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Financial Aspect

July Fourth, of course, commemorates the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, but independence, also has other significant nonpolitical meanings.

For example, responsible family heads aspire to financial independence.

But all too many in these gay years of advancing stock prices assumed that building a competence was a simple matter of blithely raking in capital gains from growth stocks.

Even highly successful companies, however, don't always have on hand more orders than they can fill.

Though the national economy as a whole has a long-term upward trend, it historically occasionally makes a step backwards before taking two steps forward.

Prudent Approach

The fellow who has been frustrated during this corrective period when Washington economic planners have been tightening the screws to cool off inflation errs if he concludes that hereafter risk-taking is not for him. Instead of making emotional commitments about the future, it would be more prudent for the security holder to be flexible and reappraise economic conditions and prospects on X-Day when and if conditions change.

Thus, this current mood of frustrated bulls to sell out if an opportune rally occurs will tend to turn long-term investors into traders.

If you think that capitalism (with law and order and due process) has a future, then ownership of stakes in basic, seasoned companies is a phase of investment prudence. While numerous glamour stocks were grossly overpriced, standard, prime issues are not.

The multiples, that is the ratio between stock prices and company earnings, have not risen as rapidly as corporate profits. In the latter part of June, the 30 stocks in the Dow Jones Industrial average were quoted at 15 times estimated earnings. This is in line with historic experience. In 1961, the same stocks sold 21 times earnings, and the average price earnings ratio for the decade 1959-1968, was 17. Similarly the price-earnings ratio for 425 stocks in the Standard & Poor's average recently stood at 16, compared to 20 in 1961 and 17 for the 1959-1968 decade. Though, as David L. Babson, investment analyst, observed "the speculative binge" may be over, the time is here for discrimination and cool analysis.

Switching Expensive

In light of the high cost of switching, including in and out brokerage commissions, transfer taxes, and realized capital gains, the wisdom of such a way of financial life for amateurs is — to say the least — debatable.

A more feasible policy is to select prime enterprises with strong survival prospects and the likelihood of growth and to buy them at various phases of the business cycle through "dollar averaging," that is, putting precisely the same number of dollars periodically (monthly, quarterly or annually) in exactly the same issues. Such a consistent procedure tends to produce a satisfactory cost, provided the initial selection is good.

Those who don't trust their own judgment can hire professionals, including several New York banks which manage small funds, or they can get such guidance indirectly through acquiring mutual funds, closed fund investment company shares, common trust funds, or variable annuities.

It is stupid to be paralyzed by cynicism after the event. Any one who was sucker enough to believe that volatile stocks constituted a riskless adventure was barking up the wrong tree. The error was in the starting premise.

The function of investment, like that of the adventure of living, is not to escape risks, but to calculate them carefully and select them wisely.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be handled in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Honduran Airplane Bombs El Salvador

San Salvador El Salvador (AP) — The Salvadorean government reported a plane from Honduras bombed a border post Thursday and touched off a brief battle between ground forces of the two feuding Central American nations.

El Salvador and Honduras broke off diplomatic relations a week ago over a soccer dispute climaxing a long series of differences.

The Salvadorean foreign ministry said a lone Honduran plane attacked the Salvadorean border post at El Poy and that government troops returned the fire. No casualties were reported. First government reports said a town had been bombed.

Later, the ministry said, two other Honduran planes flew over the area but were chased off by Salvadorean air force planes.

Meantime, border troops on both sides of the frontier exchanged fire for 20 minutes, the foreign ministry added.

The Honduran government said one of its commercial aircraft was attacked by gunfire from El Salvador when it flew over the Honduran border city of Ocotepeque.

In a statement issued in the capital of Tegucigalpa, the Honduran government said the commercial plane, owned by Sahas Airlines, was fired on but was not hit.

A Honduran customs house near the border came under ground fire a short while later, the government said. No injuries were reported on the Honduran side.

Electrical Workers Fail To Reach Pact Accord

Electrical workers have joined the Teamsters Union as the only Lincoln craft unions that have failed to reach new contract agreements during a year which has seen the expiration of more than a dozen union contracts.

A representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) Local 265 said the Lincoln division of the National Electrical Contractors Association (NECA) had offered the electricians increases amounting to $2.05 per hour over a two-year period, including fringe benefits. The current scale is $5.15 including fringes.

The offer would give an immediate 75 cent raise, 30 cents Jan. 1, 1970, 65 cents July 1, 1970, and 35 cents Jan. 1, 1971. The raises include five cents for health and welfare funds immediately and an option of 10 cents for either health and welfare or cash next July.

The Teamsters have reportedly just gotten underway in their dealings with the Lincoln Building Construction Employers Association.

BCEA president John Miller said he had received no word as to a possible agreement with the Teamsters.

Labor Problems Delay Production Of Nuclear Arms

Denver, Colo. (AP) — U.S. nuclear weapons production, crippled by a fire May 11 at a Colorado Atomic Energy Commission plant, is threatened with further delays by labor difficulties, an AEC spokesman confirmed Thursday.

Michael J. Sunderland, the AEC's spokesman at its nearby Rocky Flats plant, said a dispute that has idled more than 160 sheet metal workers is delaying "a very important defense project with a very crucial completion date."

He declined to be more specific, beyond saying the $75-million project involved "new systems" at the nuclear weapons production plant and that one section of the project replaced capabilities lost during the fire. The project is due for completion in 1970.

State Seeking Bids On Estimated $31.9 Million In Highway Projects

The Nebraska Department of Roads announced Thursday it will invite bids on an estimated $31.9 million of highway work — most of it on the Interstate — between August and December.

State Engineer Marvin Nuernberger said $13.3 million of the total bill will come from highway bonds due to be issued yet this year under the Legislature's recent authorization.

The $31.9 million output compares with about $32.7 million in lettings for the first seven months of 1969, the department said.

Lettings Increase

The total bill for 1969 may exceed the contracts let in 1967 and 1968, Nuernberger said

In the August-December output, 21% will be used for construction in and around Omaha including the Interstate, 40% toward completing the Interstate in the Panhandle and of the remaining 39%, 21% will be spent on projects in the eastern half of Nebraska and 18% in the west.

Among the scheduled lettings will be a nine-mile leg of Interstate 80 between Lodgepole and Chappell at an estimated cost of about $4 million.

Taking up an estimated $5 million will be a 12.4 mile segment of the Interstate between Bushnell and Kimball.

Regulations Followed

Nuernberger said the letting schedule was "predicated upon federal and state regulations which presently exist remaining status quo through this period. . ."

He said the schedule "attempts to obtain a balance of projects statewide between the various types of construction and by geographical areas."

The total mounts of estimated lettings by months: August $5.6 million; September, $3.5 million; October, $6.9 million; November, $7.4 million; December, $7.4 million.

The list of proposed project lettings by month and by location, miles involved (if any), and type of highway and work, and the estimated cost (shown in parenthesis) is:

Nixon Hopes U.S.-Soviet Arms Talks Begin Soon

Geneva (UPI) — In a message to the opening summer session of the Geneva disarmament conference, President Nixon said Thursday he hopes the United States and the Soviet Union will soon begin negotiations on the limitation of strategic weapons.

The President said the strategic arms talks "of necessity" will be bilateral affairs. "The United States government is, however, deeply conscious of its responsibilities to its allies and to the community of nations," he said.

While the U.S.-Soviet talks progress, Nixon said, "it is particularly important that multilateral negotiations continue in this committee in an atmosphere of determination and promise. Arms control is without doubt a subject of direct concern to all nations."

The President called on the conference, in recess since May 22, to work on a treaty to ban nuclear weapons from the ocean floor, on controlling chemical and biological weapons and on an "adequately verified" comprehensive nuclear test ban.

The presidential message was read to the conference by U.S. negotiator James F. Leonard.

Alexei A. Roshchin, the Soviet negotiator, also said his nation wants to agree with the United States on a treaty keeping the ocean floor free of the arms race.

But Roshchin reiterated that the Russian proposal to keep the seabed free of all military uses is the only way to keep it safe from the arms race.

4 Die As Rocky Visits

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP) — An outburst of shooting in downtown Santo Domingo during Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's visit killed four persons and wounded at least three others, authorities reported.

Much of the shooting apparently involved members of a huge security force deployed about Santo Domingo. President Joaquin Balaguer described them as inexperienced and spoke of "nervousness and confusion."

At least 50 persons were reported under arrest.

The flareup occurred while Rockefeller, on a mission for President Nixon, conferred with Balaguer and other Dominican leaders on the specific needs of this country.

Later in the day, Rockefeller flew to Kingston, Jamaica, 18th stop of a 20-nation tour that began in Mexico early in May.

N-Bombers To Be Dispersed

Washington (AP) — The Pentagon announced Thursday a plan to disperse U.S. nuclear bombers and their tankers over more American air fields to reduce their vulnerability to sudden missile attacks.

The new program will begin this summer with nine air fields becoming new duty stations for B52 bombers and KC135 tankers from other areas.

About four aircraft and 100 military personnel will be shifted this summer by the Strategic Air Command to each of nine bases in Georgia, Texas, Mississippi, Florida, Idaho, Massachusetts and Missouri.

The bases include Albany Naval Air Station, Ga.; Bergstrom Air Force Base, Tex.; Columbus AFB, Miss.; Homestead AFB, Fla. MacDill AFB, Fla.; Mountain Home AFB, Ida.; Otis AFB, Mass.; Sheppard AFB, Tex. and Whiteman AFB, Miss.

Ex-Rolling Stone Is Found Dead

Hartfield, England (AP) — A midnight swim with a bikini-clad Swedish blonde ended in death Thursday for former Rolling Stone Brian Jones — a onetime garbage collector who became the pop idol of millions.

Desperate life-saving efforts failed after Jones was found lying at the bottom of the swimming pool south of London.

It appeared that 27-year-old Jones, who earned $2,400 a week, may have died from an attack of asthma or a heart attack caused by overuse of an asthma inhalant. An inhaler was found beside the 50-foot pool.

Robber Goofs, Settles For $1

Ada, Okla. (AP) — The Chriswell Funeral Home was held up Thursday by a pistol-wielding man who settled for $1 after one prospective victim ran and the thief muffed his lines on the other.

The robber approached a man working at the counter and pulled the pistol from his belt. The man bolted.

The would-be robber turned to Mrs. Neva Ivey, seated at her desk, and said, "Call the police, this is a robbery."

Then he stopped.

"Just give me a dollar."

He pocketed the dollar, put his pistol in his belt and walked out.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example, A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
